LIVE CONTESTS FOR PRIMARIES

Long and Foss in Hot Campaign for Head of Democratic Ticket

Other Local Contests Waxing Warm—The Discussion of Plan B is General

Arrangements have been practically completed for the holding of the state primaries in this city with the exception of the arrival of the ballots. Under the direction of Commissioner Marchand of the public property department, polling booths throughout the city have been erected and City Clerk Flynn has received printed posters telling voters where each of the 25 polling places in the city is located. Instructions from Albert P. Langtry, secretary of the commonwealth, for precinct officers have also been received and the municipal council has passed the formal order calling the voters together to choose their nominees. The polls will be open from noon until 5 in the evening. The day is one week from next Tuesday, Sept. 23.

Healthy Registration
Registration sessions for the state primaries opened up this week and rarely has there been such a healthy interest manifested by citizens entitled to vote as there has been this year. The registrars have already held six sessions and every one of them was largely attended. A total of 721 voters was enrolled during the first two days that the registrars were open for business. Sessions will be held Monday afternoon from 2 to 4 and Monday evening from 7 to 9. The final session for those who wish to vote at

NEWS TO MR. MORSE

Commissioner Didn't Know
Firemen Were Affiliated
With A. F. of L.

The right of the members of the Lowell fire department to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor will be investigated by Commissioner Charles J. Morse at once, the latter stated this morning. Although he has been head of the fire department since the first of the year and had previously been closely associated with members of the department for years, Commissioner Morse admitted today that not until this morning was he aware of the fact that the local firemen were affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

In the early part of 1918, or about a year and a half ago, the Lowell Permanent Firemen's association, became a part of the American Federation of Labor, Commissioner Morse was told today. Joseph P. Convery is president of the organization and Edward P. Cunningham, secretary. There are about 120 men in the department. It is understood that although the firemen are associated with the labor federation, they have agreed not to strike in sympathy with other labor organizations. Commissioner Morse was somewhat surprised when told of the affiliation of the members of the department and said: "You may quote me as saying that I will look into this at once."

LOCAL GREEKS TO BUILD $300,000 SCHOOL

The Greek community of the city through an accredited committee of 17 members, headed by Christos Zangas, president of the community, as chairman and Demetrios Athanassopoulos as secretary, have secured the services of three Lowell architects to submit opinions for a suitable site and plans for the erection of a new school and auditorium, the total cost of which will be between $200,000 and $300,000. The new building will contain 20 school rooms and an assembly hall capable of seating between 300 and 500 persons and will be of modern brick or stone construction. It will replace the present Greek school building of five rooms at Worthen street and Broadway, which now accommodates 250 pupils.

Although no site has been selected it is known that the committee favors any one of the following: In Fletcher street, near the North common; Merrimack street, on property adjacent to or near St. Jean de Baptiste church, or in Worthen street near the present school building.

Active work on the plans for the new school resulted after a meeting of the community on Aug. 3, at which time it was the desire of the Greek residents to entrust the building of the school to a committee of 11 members. This committee met Sept. 7, at which time and Sunday, Sept. 15, at which time another general community meeting was held and the committee reported its deliberations.

The community then empowered the committee to engage building experts to judge upon the question of a suitable site and the general plans of the building. Fortwith Henry Bourke, Robinson & Robinson and Millard Parsons were secured to do this work. They will report to the committee on Monday next and on Wednesday evening of next week the committee again will report back to the community.

The community has far outgrown the present cramped school quarters and feels that a new building is an immediate necessity. Each of the 20 rooms of the new school will accommodate 45 pupils, while in addition to the large assembly hall there will be office space, toilets, coat rooms, etc. The present teaching staff of five will be added to to meet the demands of the children.

Favors Increased Salaries for New Members—To Be Recruited from Entire State

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—Acting upon the advice of Attorney General Wyman that the offices formerly held by the policemen who deserted their posts have been rendered vacant, it was announced at Commissioner Curtis' office this noon, the police commissioner would proceed to fill these vacancies.

"The commissioner's statement follows:

"It is manifest that the places in the police force of Boston formerly held by the men who deserted their posts of duty have by this action been rendered vacant.

"I am advised by the attorney general that upon the existing facts the offices formerly held by the members of the police force to whom I have referred are in fact, and in law, vacant. I shall accordingly proceed in accordance with law and in strict compliance with the requirements of the civil service laws to fill these vacancies with new men.

"I have submitted to the mayor of Boston recommendations for immediate adoption relating to a revision of salaries for the lowest paid members of the police force; and I shall later submit recommendations for a revision of the entire salary list.

"I have further requested the civil service commissioner to grant me authority to appoint to the police force any veterans as defined by chapter 150, of the general acts of 1919, whether such veteran be a resident of Boston or not.

"The attorney general has ruled that such veteran must be a resident of the commonwealth but need not be a resident of the city of Boston."

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—It is a fight to the finish. The offices formerly held by striking policemen are vacant. New men will be recruited. The request of Samuel Gompers that the strikers be reinstated is refused. This is the attitude of the state as made known today by Police Commissioner Curtis. It appeared to mean the complete failure of the attempts at compromise. Attention now is turned to the position to be taken by the Boston firemen, electrical workers, telephone operators, carmen and other organizations if a general strike has been threatened and if the threat is made good the most widespread labor trouble ever experienced in New England is imminent.

FOR FEDERATION FOR EMPLOYERS OF COUNTRY

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—A start toward federation of employers of the country as recommended by the recent "Our Country First" conference was made by the Illinois Manufacturers' association today by appointment of a committee representing 15 organizations with Charles Piez, former head of the shipping board as chairman. The committee will ask chambers of commerce, agricultural and other bodies to endorse the resolutions adopted at the conference which urged a federation of employers.

"Manufacturers are awakening to the fact that they have got to present their own views collectively at Washington if they expect to get what is their due in the way of legislation," said Mr. Piez.

NO SUCCESSOR TO ROBERT GARDNER

The office of the assistant superintendent of the Lowell water department, which was made vacant early in the year by the promotion of Robert Gardner to superintendent to succeed Robert J. Thomas, resigned, will not be filled this year, Commissioner Charles J. Morse stated this morning.

There has been considerable speculation since Mr. Gardner's promotion as to whom the commissioner would appoint to succeed him and with the return of Michael P. Harrington, a former foreman of the department, from overseas, the discussion was opened anew.

"I have had 21 applicants for the position of assistant superintendent since Mr. Gardner was elected superintendent," said Mr. Morse today. "and I have promised the job to no one because I do not believe that I need an assistant superintendent for the rest of this year, at least. Mr. Harrington will return to the department Monday morning but not as assistant superintendent."

SAYS U. S. WOULD HAVE ABSOLUTE VETO

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 13.—Replying here yesterday to objections that Great Britain would have a preponderance of voting power in the League of Nations assembly, President Wilson said any possible danger on that score was removed by the fact that decisions must be unanimous.

The speech here was the second the president made during the day. He spoke yesterday morning at Corcoran, Idaho, making an invasion of the state represented by William R. Borah, in the senate. At Corcoran, Idaho, the test in which he spoke was not entirely filled. Here, in the armory every seat was taken.

The League of Nations assembly, the president declared, was "largely a debating body" and so it would act on important questions and when it did the United States with its one vote would have an "absolute veto" under the rule requiring a unanimous vote. There was only one case in which the assembly could decide an important question, he said, and that was when such a question was unanimously referred to it by the council. The assembly also must act unanimously, he added, so that in either council or assembly, the one vote of the United States would constitute a veto power. The unanimous rule, added the president, seemed to him the only weakness of the league, but it was a weakness in the direction of throwing a safeguard around national sovereignty.

Mr. Wilson also discussed at length proposed reservations to the treaty and asked for its unqualified acceptance. He asked the republicans present not to think of 1920 when thinking of the redemption of the world, adding that he himself did not for a moment de so.

The president, speaking of the difficulty of defining the Monroe Doctrine, said:

"Inasmuch as you cannot or would not define the Monroe Doctrine—at least I would not because I do not want to define it, what more could you say than this nothing in that instrument shall impair the validity of the Monroe Doctrine?"

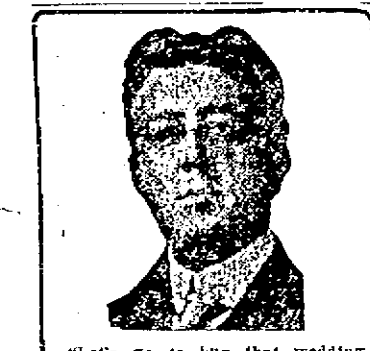

President Wilson departed for Tacoma where he spoke this morning.

Miss Ruth Iris Herwitz of Houston, Tex., had a little party on her 10th birthday at which 1500 Houston children, large and small, were present. Her father is the manager of a theatre, and a special performance was given which the children were invited to attend.

INDUSTRIAL DEMOCRACY PRESIDENT'S AIM

BY HARPER LEECH
N.E.A. Correspondent
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 13.—President Wilson is going to cause a little surprise in October according to reports here in quarters which claim to know.

When the "Labor and Capital Round Table" conference meets, it is said that there will be ready for its consideration a full-fledged program for the "democratization of industry."

The program is said to have been tentatively agreed upon by Gompers and the president. It is said to follow in marked degree many of the ideas formulated by the Henderson-Sydney Webb group in England. The president's phrase about "industrial democracy" in his message to congress in May is said to have been the official shadow cast before.

Since that time the president has taxed the ability of those who try to follow him by an apparent switch to the conservatives. His firm stand on the railroad demands and his appeal to labor to get back to work and increase production was taken in Wall Street to mean a definite turning away from tendencies which had heretofore marked the administration. In St. Paul he said, "tyranny of labor would be just as evil in the consequences to the country as a tyranny of capital."

But this is said to be merely a means to softening and preparing the way for the "democratization" program to be presented in October.

BY BIDDY BYE
September markets offer the same wealth of fruits and vegetables we have enjoyed for the last two months—with consequent independence of meat for the housewife.

Fruits are still very high in price for canning, but even so it will pay the housewife to put up small quantities at least, for the word has gone forth from the canneries that the price of commercial canned goods will be increased later. It is not a bad plan to lay in a supply of good dried fruits at this time, dried apples, peaches, apricots, prunes, pears and raisins. They are cheaper now than they will be later when the fresh fruit supply is exhausted and the demand for dried fruits begins. Evaporated fruit, bought now, should be made sterile by spreading on shallow pans and heating thoroughly in the oven. Then store in air-tight glass or tin containers, each variety to itself, and labeled. Keep tightly sealed and in a cool, dry place until ready to use.

But until the winter of our fruit and vegetable scarcity—use the fresh garden products to the full and economize on meat.

LOWELL MILLS MAY TURN FROM COAL TO OIL

The big textile mills of Lowell are giving earnest consideration to the subject of going over from coal to oil power and although it is not expected that such changes will be made this year, it is nevertheless admitted that the burning of coal for the generation of power in this city will become a thing of the past within a comparatively short time.

At the present time there is only one mill, the Bay State of the American Woolen Corp., which uses oil power. Approximately 60 per cent. of local mill power is furnished by coal and the balance by water.

It is said that four barrels of fuel oil furnish as much power as a ton of coal and the cost is less in many parts of the country. This is one of the clinching arguments being considered by Lowell mill men, while another is that to feed coal requires firemen and entails heavy and continuing expense.

Many large manufacturing centres in the east already have made extensive changes in their fuel systems. As in Lowell, the textile corporations of New Bedford and Fall River are making plans for such a change.

In anticipation of this rather revolutionary step oil companies are building great supply stations at Providence and other New England ports and many orders have been placed by mills for large oil storage tanks. The Charlton at Fall River is one of the biggest mills that has come over to oil fuel, while the famous King Philip is to follow suit, it is said.

It is not a staggering proposition to change coal boilers over to oil burners. The Bay State mill here when it made the change, reconstructed one of its old boilers and installed one new oil burner.

What it would mean if the textile industry abandoned coal may be appreciated when it is said that there are about 8000 miles of this kind in America. All of these do not use coal however. In the south hydro-electric energy is utilized to some extent and water power is employed elsewhere, but it is safe to say that 20 per cent. of the mills depend on coal.

There is no expectation that coal is coming down in price and therefore, there is economy in oil today. However, it seems probable, with the thousands of streams of water flowing over the land, that water will eventually supplant oil. It has been said that only one-half of one per cent. of the water power that might be employed in United States is harnessed today.

Cities which experience the discomfort of soot and dirt pouring out in smoke from mill chimneys will welcome the coming of oil-burners, for such power gives out practically no smoke.

OPPOSITION TO TRIAL OF FORMER KAISER

ROME, Thursday, Sept. 11.—Opposition to the trial of William Hohenzollern is expressed in a report of the parliamentary commission entrusted with the examination of the peace treaty with Germany. The report was presented to the Chamber of Deputies today by Louis Luzzatto.

"Crimes attributed to the former emperor were not contemplated in any penal code," the report says. "Nobody can be called to answer and be punished for an act which, when committed did not constitute a crime contemplated by law. The society of nations may establish for the future the criminal status of offenses against international morals or disregard of treaties, lay down the procedure for judging the culprit and provide for the penalty, but Count Hohenzollern's accusers cannot appoint judges, and it is impossible to ask Holland to extradite her guest for political crimes not within the purview of present treaties. The former emperor must be placed in a condition where he can do no harm, but the eternal ideals which guarantee public and private law must be saved."

The report urges a maximum diminution of military expenses and expresses the hope that the League of Nations will facilitate the admission of the countries responsible for the war, including Germany. It also says that at the coming international labor conference at Washington legislation should be framed which will prevent any state from permitting workmen to labor under conditions which would be injurious to workers of other nations.

Complaint is made that the share of the coal which Germany is to give Italy is conditioned upon the possibility of Germany to produce it, so Germany, naturally, will give none to Italy, although the amount of coal allotted to France was made compulsory by the treaty.

LOWELL SOLDIER GETS CROIX DE GUERRE

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—New England veterans of the war were decorated with American, French or Italian honor emblems by Major General Clarence R. Edwards here today. They included Ernest E. Labrange and Willis Andrews of Worcester, Croix de Guerre; Henry P. Garfield of Fall River, Croix de Guerre; Jean M. Neene of Holbrook, Medaille Militaire; Richard D. Skinner of Manchester, N. H., Cross of the Legion of Honor, and Edward J. McNerney of Lowell, Croix de Guerre.

K. OF C. COMMITTEE ON WAR ACTIVITIES

The Knights of Columbus committee on war activities have gone on record to protest the movement started by the War department which would out all welfare organizations in their work about the camps and military reservations, and put such work in the hands of the army authorities. Just now the Knights stand in their attitude towards the project of the government developed at a recent meeting of the committee held at Copley Square hotel, Boston, Mass. Their protest came in reply to a suggestion from Col. Jason S. Joy, executive officer of the commission on training camp activities of War department. Col. Joy wanted to know what the viewpoint of the Knights of Columbus was in regard to "the cessation of all activities in the camps by welfare societies, to be succeeded by the army officials."

In reply, the following statement was quickly forthcoming from the K-C committee:

"To tell Col. Joy that the Knights of Columbus stand today, as always, ready to comply with any order of his commission representing the War department, including, of course, the withdrawal of all war activities in the camps. If, however, it is the intention of the department to ask the withdrawal of Knights of Columbus and all other war agencies within the camps, we feel that we ought to state our position on the broad question involved, namely as to the conduct in the future of all welfare, recreational and educational work by the War department as a part of its regular work. We are opposed to any attempt to institutionalize the activities heretofore conducted by the so-called War Welfare societies.

From our experience we can safely say that the men in service welcome a relief from war supervision and military methods. They welcome the relief and willingly respond to the services of civilians to whom they owe no special duty of military deference and obedience. It is a relief from the restraint of official supervision for them to receive a touch of home life and neighborly assistance within the camps. The service to spiritual matters by outside ministers, rabbis, and priests has also been a grateful relief from military life. Ready to leave the service, if so ordered, we nevertheless wish to record our protest against the proposed new policy and feeling that the action of congress in refusing funds asked for these purposes by the War department, the very willing contribution of the public for the maintenance of this work by welfare societies, the hearty response and appreciation of the men in service, the very inherent contrast between military rule and discipline and recreational and educational work in the hands of friendly civilians all speak against the taking over of this work by the army as one of its regular functions.

Aches and Pains of Rheumatism Sometimes Almost Unbearable.

There are weather conditions that make rheumatism worse. They are not the same in the cases of all persons. Some victims of this disease suffer more in dry warm weather than in moist cold weather, but all suffer more or less all the time. The cause of rheumatism is an excess of uric acid in the blood, affecting the muscles and joints. Hence the blood must have attention for permanent results in the treatment of this disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla has given entire satisfaction in thousands of cases. Do not fail to give it a trial. If a laxative is needed, take Hood's Pills—they don't grime.

MARMALADES! VEGETABLE—OR FRUIT

BY BIDDY BYE

The early September air is sweet with the smell of spices, cooking sugar and fruits—and no wonder—for it's the delicious season the housewife holds sacred to marmalade.

Marmalade—in the preserved fruit world—is a sort of simplified fruit butter. The old-fashioned apple and peach butters were a tremendous undertaking—involving long hours of cooking, much sugar, and much arduous stirring. Marmalade achieves much the same consistency as fruit butters and an even superior richness and delicacy of flavor. Usually it is made and packed in moderate quantities so that it is easier to handle and affords greater possibilities of variety.

Here are some excellent marmalade recipes—both fruit and vegetable.

CARROT MARMALADE

4 cups ground carrots.
3 cups sugar.
4 lemons.
4 teaspoons ground ginger root.
Cook carrots until tender and add the sugar. Slice the lemons very thin and remove the seeds. Cut the slices in quarters. Add to the carrots and cook very slowly until thick and clear looking. Stir only enough to keep from burning. Pack in hot, sterilized pint jars or glasses and boil 5 minutes in hot-water bath. Seal.

DIXIE MARMALADE

2 cups ground carrots.
1½ cups chopped sweet green peppers.
2 lemons.
2 cups rhubarb, cut fine.
2 cups sugar.
Ginger root to flavor.
Cook carrots, add sugar and sliced lemons and pepper. Add ground ginger root and cook until thick. Pack in sterilized glasses or jars and boil 5 minutes in hot water bath.

RIPE TOMATO MARMALADE

2 dozen medium sized tomatoes.
3½ cups sugar.
3 lemons.
Peel and slice the tomatoes thin and remove seeds. Slice lemons including rinds, remove seeds and quarter. Cook tomatoes soft, add lemons and sugar and cook until thick. Seal in sterile jars and cook in hot water bath 5 minutes.

QUINCE MARMALADE

3 large apples.
3 quinces.
Water to cover.
Sugar, cup for cup.
Wash, peel and core apples and quinces, saving the cores and parings. Roll the fruit with enough water to cover until tender. Roll the cores and parings with water to cover. Rub the tender fruit through a sieve, and add the strained juice from the parings. Measure the fruit and add 1 scant cup of sugar or less for each cup of pulp. Cook the fruit with the sugar until thick. Pour in sterile glasses, seal with paraffin. This quantity of fruit makes one quart of marmalade.

ORANGE MARMALADE

Wash and remove seeds of 1 grapefruit, 1 orange and 1 lemon. Squeeze the juice from all the fruit and put the rinds through a meat chopper. Measure pulp and juice and add three times the quantity of water. Put all in an enameled bowl or china bowl and let stand over night. Next day boil the mixture for 15 minutes. Cool and add the sugar, cup for cup, and boil again until thick and clear. Pour in sterile glasses and seal.

PEAR MARMALADE

To 1 pound of ripe, juicy pears peeled and cored, allow 1 pound of sugar and the grated rind and juice of 1 lemon or orange. Cook down until thick, stirring often, pour in sterile glasses and seal.

PINEAPPLE MARMALADE

Peel and core fresh, ripe pineapple and cut in small pieces. Allow 1½ pounds of sugar for each pound of fruit, mix and let stand overnight in a porcelain bowl set in a cool place. Next morning cook the fruit gently for 1 hour, press the fruit through a coarse sieve, and cook half-hour longer until clear and golden. Place in glasses or small pots and seal.

CONVENTION WILL CLOSE TOMORROW

Owing to the large amount of business to be transacted the second annual convocation of the United Leather Workers' International union of America, which is being held in this city, will not be brought to a close until tomorrow evening. The convention, which opened in this city last Tuesday with about 40 delegates from Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont and New York in attendance and it was expected that the sessions would be brought to a close yesterday. The election of officers, which was scheduled to be held yesterday will not take place until tomorrow, this to be the last business of the convention.

At yesterday afternoon's session the delegates discussed matters of importance for the future upbuilding of the organization. Considerable business was transacted and at the close of the session the delegates were addressed by the president of the local Trades & Labor council.

MR. G. A. SKELLY LEAVES

Manager of Saunders' Market Goes to Pittsburg to Take Charge of Two Stores

Mr. Gregory A. Skelly for over four and a half years manager of Saunders' market on Gorham street, leaves today to take charge of two large stores of the Mohican company in Pittsburg, Pa.

Those who have been acquainted with Mr. Skelly during his stay in this city will regret his leaving, as he was at all times a most courteous and obliging gentleman.

Before coming to Lowell he had extensive training and experience with the Mohican company which has many great stores throughout the country. His last engagement was in Haverhill, Mass. This concern, it is understood, has made him a flattering offer to go to Pittsburg and manage two of its stores which are but a short distance apart.

Under Mr. Skelly's management the Saunders' market, which is the largest grocery emporium in New England outside Boston, did a very large and prosperous business. Even through the stress of war times its large clientele of patrons steadily increased.

Before the hour of closing last night, Mr. Thomas Gannon went to Mr. Skelly and informed him that the store clerks appeared to have organized a union and it looked as if they were about to strike. "They want to see you right away," said Mr. Gannon. "That's impossible," said Mr. Skelly. "They are all satisfied with conditions, but I'll see what they want."

the assembly, and addressing Mr. Skelly, he said:

"In behalf of the employees of Saunders' market, I have to express to you, Mr. Skelly, their feeling of deep regret at your departure from Saunders' market and from Lowell. In the four odd years during which we have been associated with you, our relations have been of the most friendly character. We have always found you candid, straightforward, courteous and considerate, and it gives all of us great pleasure to present to you a great token of the high esteem in which you are held by the employees of Saunders' market. These we hope in years to come will serve to remind you of the years you have spent in Lowell and of the friends who in this far-off meeting wish you unbounded success and happiness wherever fate may call you.

The gifts included a Gillette shaving set, a suit case and other articles useful to anybody who travels. Mr. Skelly, completely surprised, expressed his high appreciation of the feeling that prompted this presentation, thanking the clerks for this mark of good feeling and friendship and said that wherever he went he would always have pleasant recollections of Saunders' market and all those with whom he had been associated in the capacity of manager.

He left Lowell on an afternoon train for New York, where he will rest for a week before going to Pittsburg.

TRADES UNION CONGRESS FOR IRISH FREEDOM

GLASGOW, Sept. 13.—The Trades Union Congress today unanimously adopted a resolution deprecating military rule in Ireland and declaring that the only solution of the Irish problem was through self determination by which the Irish people could work out their own salvation. The resolution expressed profound sympathy for the trades unionists' "Irish brethren in their hour of repression." It was moved by John Henry Thomas, labor member of parliament, and seconded by Robert Skellie the trades' leader.

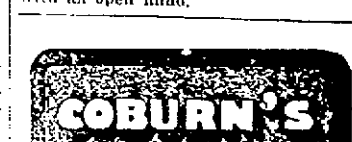

The congress also passed resolutions reaffirming the right of free speech and protesting against the arrest and deportation of alien trades union officials for alleged connection with Bolshevism. The resolutions also expressed belief in the necessity for continuing the control of food prices.

UNIONISM GONE ASTRAY
President Wilson says the strike of the policemen in Boston "leaving the city at the mercy of things is a crime against civilization."

That is the proper designation of the Boston strike, and such a step by the guardians of public order is even more criminal in the United States than it would be anywhere else in the world, because here we live under the freest and best government that exists in the entire world.

Here men sworn in as loyal servants of the city of Boston for the enforcement of law, merely because of some real or fancied grievance, decide to abandon their posts of duty and leave the city a prey to the criminal elements that have flocked thither like vultures to take advantage of the opportunity to indulge in mob violence, plunder and assaults upon defenceless women.

Unfortunates through the obsequious deference which our legislators have always shown for labor, there is no law under which a police strike can be prevented or penalized.

Possibly no member of the legislature ever supposed that such a strike was possible. But we are face to face with a new order of things under which the supremacy of law and the whole fabric of our freedom is threatened by the audacity of unionism gone mad.

The Boston strike is an example. It has brought the issue to a climax, and now it must be met with the determination necessary to restore a proper sense of responsibility, not only on the part of policemen but of members of labor unions and of all patriotic citizens.

But if the policemen are denied the privilege of joining labor unions, they must be allowed the freedom of speech and action necessary to lay their grievances before the proper officials in a public way in order that they may secure justice and not be held down under rules for enforced silence such as we understand have been put in operation by Commissioner Curtis.

It seems that the revolutionary character of this strike had not been fully realized either by the policemen themselves or by the labor elements that threatened to declare a sympathetic strike to tie up the industrial activities of the entire city of Boston.

Foremost in the ranks of the sympathizers are the Boston firemen who have declared their readiness to join the police and if need be leave the city at the mercy of fire fiends, thugs, thieves, robbers and murderers.

Let it be understood, once for all, that to place any body of public service employees under control of an outside organization is unsound, dangerous and contrary to right public policy.

If carried to its logical conclusion it would result in a dictatorship and an oligarchy in this country far more tyrannical than anything that ever existed under the Czar of Russia.

For if the policemen be conceded the right to join the American Federation of Labor, then the firemen and every other class of public employees must be given the same privilege. Then the State Guard and the men employed in the army and navy of the United States with equal reason could demand and assert the right to affiliate with organized labor.

Then what would become of the power of the government? The American Federation of Labor would call and the city would go to the streets, leaving the city a prey to the criminal elements that have flocked thither like vultures to take advantage of the opportunity to indulge in mob violence, plunder and assaults upon defenceless women.

The men who were drafted for service in the trenches in Europe without regard to financial reward, offered their lives to uphold the freedom which the Boston policemen would tear down. But despite the traitorous action of the police, the patriotism of the citizenry has sprung to the breach and no Bolshevik craven will ever be allowed to drag our glorious banner in the dust.

STREET RAILWAY FARES
John A. Becker, a street railway expert of national reputation, who two years ago examined the Boston Elevated property for the Massachusetts public service commission, conceded the right to join the American Federation of Labor, then the firemen and every other class of public employees must be given the same privilege.

Hand in hand with the upward tendency in the cost of all commodities during the days of war, street railway companies increased fares and charges. They offered the defense that it was absolutely necessary if fares and the cost of necessary material were to be met.

What was the result? Patronage fell off in a truly alarming degree. What was the next move of the corporation? The fares again were increased and patronage fell off more alarmingly.

W. of Lowell has more sympathy with the public service companies, which operators of street cars in our streets, than with any other class of public employees. He has seen the Boston street railway fare the short-haul rider's business is almost completely lost.

ern Massachusetts (Bay State) Street Railway Co. has done.

We do not believe that operating and overhead charges can possibly be met through the payment of a policy such as has been in vogue locally on our traction system. Improved service and a decrease in fares to such an extent that the people simply cannot afford not to ride, to us seems the logical, business-like method of procedure. It remains to be seen what the result will be, not only in Lowell but in other cities.

THE AUDITORIUM

Judging from the progress made by the auditorium commission in the short space of four months, it appears that this community is to get a much needed demonstration of expeditions work in carrying out the building enterprise placed in the hands of that commission. Only those acquainted with building projects of this nature, understand how much red tape and how many legal and technical questions have to be decided before any definite step is made towards the adoption of plans and the calling for bids. Nevertheless, this commission in a few months has chosen a site, has had the buildings sold and partially removed, plans and specifications completed and the time fixed for receiving bids and signing the contracts for the work.

In the manner of receiving the bids the commission has adopted a plan that should meet the approval of contractors inasmuch as it removes all possibility of any unfairness in dealing with the several bids. All bids are to be delivered in person while the commission is in session to be opened and read there and then. That is a new wrinkle that may well be adopted in all similar cases.

Pictures in Boston papers during the past two days, captioned "Horrors of the Hoodlums," etc., taken as dice games on the common were broken up by state guardsmen, present the surprising fact that, from the pictures, one might be led to believe that well dressed and apparently respectable men have been caught in the round-ups. Doubtless many have been so caught who know better, but have engaged in the games just because it seemed to them a novel opportunity and their minds have not been serious enough to grasp the disgrace involved. A hoodlum is a hoodlum no matter how clothed if he conducts himself in defiance of law and decency.

We always have sensed an overpowering feeling of pity for the men who swash about harbors and the open ocean dangers, in dirty, blunt-nosed tug boats. In fact, admiration for the sturdy strength of the boats themselves has quite put the men of the crews in the background. But no more pity. The chief engineers aboard ocean-going tugs have submitted new wage demands which call for a monthly salary of $287.50 for chief engineers instead of $195, the present wage. The first assistant engineers ask for $200 instead of the present $165, while the second assistants ask for $175 in place of their present wage of $135.

Novalists who seek "moonshine" stills for plots around which to weave fiction need no longer confine their searchings to the old state of Kentucky. While we doubt that the flat country of Massachusetts lends the truly appropriate topographical setting for these illicit breweries, yet such are in operation within the Commonwealth and four alleged moonshiners were arrested in Medford, right in Boston's back door yard on Wednesday.

For the first time in years the county jail at Nantucket has a prisoner within its granite walls. It is a novel experience for Jailor Eldridge, who now has something to do besides draw his salary of $4.17 a month. Nantucket night would follow in the footsteps of the county of Middlesex, but go even a step farther and abolish the position of jailor.

We wonder if the thieves who looted a Portland, Me., hair store of $11,000 worth of switches, transformations and fags were all bald headed men. At least, that might be a clue for the Maine police to work upon.

SEEN AND HEARD

"We wish to apologize for the manner in which we disgraced the beautiful wedding last week," wrote the country editor. "Through an error of the type-setter we were made to say 'The roses were pink.' What we meant to say was that 'The roses were pink.'"

"God is very near Hickville tonight," thus the new correspondent began his story of a mine catastrophe in which a score of men were killed. The editor didn't read any further, but scratched off the following order: "The interview got; get signed statement; forget the rest."

The wedding of a prominent couple called for a column story. The society reporter labored arduously and long and became exhausted when within two lines of his goal. So the make-up man seized a two-line "filler" and stamped it in without reading it. The townspeople read it, however. It ran like this: "Isn't it strange what fools some women pick for husbands?"

Sounded Hibbitt.
Two American negro soldiers were discussing musical instruments. "Yar," said one, "Tee gwine ter git me a cellophane?"

"A what?" queried the other. "A cellophane—dat's a musical instrument, fool?"

"Go on nigger. You can't kid me—dis is one of de books on de Bible!"

Movable Feast.
"Where is Mr. Fluddub lunching today?" "Well, he may be at the next corner or he may be at a couple of blocks down the street."

"I thought his habits were very regular. Can't you tell where he is lunching?" "Not precisely. He lunches at a banana eat, but it moves around."

The Clever Friend.
A shy young hostess, in an effort to be genial, led aside the comparative stranger, whose name, somehow, eluded her.

"Oh, Mr.—er—I've paired you off with that lady in the corner. Will you take her to dinner? My husband, a naughty man, says she's a bit of an old frump, but she's got lots of money, and one of his clever friends has just married her for it, so we must be very nice to her."

"I am sorry, madam," said the outraged guest, "but I am the clever friend in question."

Scenes in Boston.

Boston town presented a strange appearance Thursday evening to the outsider who makes occasional trips to the Hub. The minute one struck the North station he could sense there was something wrong or, at least, something out of the ordinary about the throngs that usually gather in the long train shed were absent. The incoming train had a smaller "passenger list" than usual. You didn't have to wade through seemingly interminable crowds to get into the street. The drug store, shoe shine parlor, news-stand and all the other familiar appurtenances of the station were in the usual position, but there was a noticeable lack of activity that usually characterizes them. And mind you this was only 6.30 in the evening—still broad daylight. Less than 200 yards from the station a group of young men, none of them younger than 24 or 25, were shooting crap on the sidewalk of Haverhill street through which thousands of people pass daily on Bay State electric for the various cities and towns along the shore. Nobody paid much attention to them; Bostonians had evidently become accustomed to such scenes in the two days of disorder. In Charlestown one would meet a State Guardsman every now and then, enveloped in his overcoat and carrying his rifle with great bayonet in a manner that indicated ability for quick action. Then as the electric rolled on into the towns beyond the immediate scope of Boston there came into view the more than ever welcome figure of the bluecoat patrolling his beat or chatting with a bystander on the one topic of the day. And it certainly was a welcome sense of security that one experienced as he saw the guardians of the law doing their duty in a normal manner. At 10.15 in the evening the North station train shed was more deserted than ever. About 25 people to be seen up and down the long bleak expanse of board walk, train boards and iron seating. On any other evening—well, it would be a different story.

The Spirit of the Angler.
I hear the call of wild surf rising in the bay.
I see the wind swept beaches and the grassy dunes.
I see the white marshes stretching far away.
I hear the pine trees chant their sad, sweet tones.
I see the salt wrack sweeping over the beach.
My hands are aching with salt, sweet, briny air.
I feel the surge and rush of ever flowing tide.
And the waves of sand blown through my hair.
I see an angler standing waist deep in the surf.
As sunset shadows o'er the lonely beach his cry.
And with the passion of a dream he takes the great fish of nature killed in sleep.

Like smoke wreaths rising from the funeral pyres of gods.
I see the clouds banked against the western sky.
And only the call of a dying bird.
I hear the lonely gray sea far off.
—ARTHUR ARNOLD LA VIE in the New York Star.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

"I'd much prefer going back to France to fight the Germans than to go to Boston with these fellows," said a Lowell veteran of the world war who got his share of that stuffy old town, sold a year or so ago as he watched the local expenses of it. "I've spent, month off. Wednesday afternoon, to help bring order out of chaos in Boston. I've been there in France you have a chance to know whom some of the fellows with you can hit back the day. There you don't know from what side you're going to be hit and it's hard to fire on anybody for fear that you'll kill some innocent bystander. And then the after effects of this affair aren't going to be very pleasant for the civilian soldier who is compelled to shoot another civilian during the heat of the fighting. Martial law is the only way out of the situation."

It may be interesting for the residents of this city to know just what the Lowell Humane society is doing in the line of exterminating the cat family. I was informed the other day by C. Fred Gilmore, assistant agent of the society, that during the past month over 500 cats met their fate. In the electric box at the police station table. Mr. Gilmore does not charge cats on the street, but when he is called to a house he quickly responds and that means the end of friend cat. This reminds me of what I read recently about a farmers' association in the west that offered $2 for each cat killed in their district and $100 for the head of the last cat in the neighborhood. They claimed that the cats raised havoc with the crops and that they were a menace to the farming industry, for they devoured birds upon which the farmers relied for the extermination of insects. The cat killing campaign was carried on for a couple of years and finally the $100 prize was given. Mr. Gilmore is not receiving a bonus for every cat he kills, but nevertheless he is always on the job and if you have a cat you wish to do away with, simply give the Lowell Humane society a call and its agents will do the rest. Most people, however, are inclined to have him do away with other cats than their own and they even go so far as to request him to call at the midnight hour when the neighborhood cats hold high carnival. Mr. Gilmore, however, has to sleep of nights like other folks when the cats are not too noisy.

Any doubt as to the continued scarcity of sugar in Lowell was dispelled from the public mind Thursday when a new market opened its doors in Merrimack square and freely advertised the fact that they had "sugar enough for everybody." We should say, off hand, that everybody was there, too, at some time during the day and some customers more than once. The limit was two pounds to a customer until the two-pound boxes gave out at 11.30 o'clock and then one pound was a limit. Repetition was possible, however, just as many times as the individual cared to brave the crush of the human larrage and elbow his way to the counter. And one had to have the correct change, too, or he was out of luck. There has been some talk of a law recently passed whereby a storekeeper is forbidden to demand the purchase of some other article of food before sugar may be obtained, but we have not been able to find such an act. It is known, however, that the state police have investigated such occurrences and are directly opposed to the practice. There was no such condition imposed in the new store sugar sale.

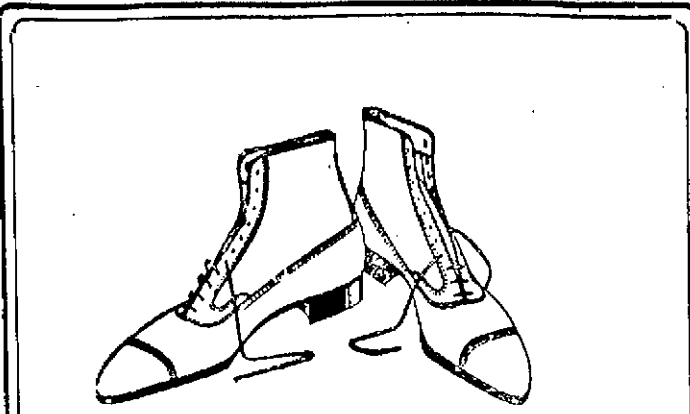

From all we are able to gather it seems that the three Lowell companies of the 11th regiment, M.S.G., who Wednesday received orders for strike duty in Boston, mobilized and reported with such speed as to bring forth general commendation from headquarters in the Hub. Scarcely more than four hours elapsed between the time the orders were received here and the subsequent reporting, ready for business, at the South armory in Irvington street. It is proof of finger-tip organization and instant co-operation on the part of the men. There was no hesitancy apparent, although many of the privates and non-coms left soft positions for a duty which did not promise any bed of roses. Many persons have laughed up their sleeves at the state guard, but the fact remains that its members fulfill their sworn obligations, without comment or reservation. The state should feel justifiable pride in this militia organization and particularly in the three companies in whose ranks are our own home folks.

There is a steadily growing inclination on the part of high school pupils to get away from classical subjects and devote as much time as possible to commercial books. This is showing up even more strongly this year because of the over-crowded condition of the commercial department and Headmaster Bixby believes that when the courses are finally arranged, fully one-half of the student body will be enrolled in the commercial branch. The ratio was not quite as high last year, but has shown a sure increase from year to year during the last decade. # GEN. PERSHING AT WASHINGTON

for Leading American
Forces to Victory

Marshal Greets General in
President's Place—Pershing
Lauds Women

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—With the plaudits of New York and Philadelphia still ringing in his ears, Gen. John J. Pershing arrived in Washington yesterday and received a foretaste of the more formal greeting he will receive next week when he leads the 1st Division up historic Pennsylvania avenue in the nation's victory parade.

As he stepped from his special train at the station, the man who led the American army to victory in France heard a cry of greeting rise from the hundreds of women and girls who lined his pathway. As he stood later with bare head before Vice President Marshall in the president's waiting room to receive the welcome of the president and the nation, again it was women and girls, armed with flags and flowers who surrounded him. There was little of the pomp of war about the conqueror's return.

The reception, with the exception of these lines of school girls and women of the government departments and the greeting extended in President Wilson's name by Vice President Marshall, was informal. Secretary Baker and Gen. March, chief of staff, greeted Gen. Pershing at the train and escorted him to the room where the vice president awaited him.

Address of Vice President
In greeting the commander, Vice President Marshall said:

"You are not only welcome to the capital of your own republic, but you are welcome back to the land of your nativity. Your commander-in-chief bids me in his behalf and in behalf of the American people to greet you. It is a glad duty to be inadequately performed, for human expression has not yet found the way to voice in language the deeper and finer sentiments of our natures. Perhaps you can gain some slight conception of the real joy with which we hail your home-coming when I tell you that you occupy the most unique position in all the world's history.

"Unnumbered and unremembered conquerors have returned from foreign lands bearing, chained to their chariot wheels, the writhing human evidences of conquest and supremacy over alien peoples. To you it has been vouchsafed to lead the greatest expeditionary force of all time through perils of sea, perils of land and perils of air, to the ultimate accomplishment of your heart's desire. You come rather in meekness and humility of spirit, saying to the great American people that as the Nazarene died to make men holy, so their sons have died to make men free.

"You, their surviving commander, come back to us with no evidence of loss and conquest, but with the triumphs of the soul and spirit of liberty and law, to assure us that the cause in which they have died was a sacred cause, that the motives which moved them did not pass away with their expiring breath.

"In the name of my countrymen and my president, I salute you. Hail the patriot, farewell to the conqueror and yet again, hail."

Tribute to Women

Possibly it was the great preponderance of women in the crowd about him that led him, Pershing to pay high tribute to the women of America in his haltingly delivered reply to the vice president. In the ungrudging confidence the president had reposed in him, he said, he had found constant strength for the tasks that had fallen to him, but he added that it was the high courage of the women of America that had made possible victory complete and final.

Preceded by a clattering cavalry escort, Gen. Pershing was taken to his hotel by Mr. Marshall in the latter's automobile. A draped army car, flying the general's four-starred banner, was in waiting, but the vice president would have none of it and personally conducted the man who has come home as his country's honored guest to the hotel that is to be his temporary home in Washington. All along the line of the swift-moving procession the street crowds waved and cheered.

HOUSEWIFE MAY BE SANITATION EXPERT

BY BIDDY HYE

Every housewife may—even must be—an amateur sanitary expert—and one everlastingly on the job—in the battle against dirt and disease which carry the fight right into the home.

Now is the season to take all precautions and preventive measures against the germs and dust that will aid and abet "flu weather" when it comes.

Clean up the yard, and burn all rubbish.

Carefully dry out and ventilate the cellar by leaving all doors and windows open all day on several sunny days.

Clean out and prepare all storage bins for vegetables and shelves or closets for fruit. Clean the cement or dirt floors and give the walls and ceiling a good coat of whitewash.

If there is a dirt floor sweep it well and sprinkle thoroughly with a good disinfectant.

See that the heating plant is clean and in order. Burn paper and trash in the furnace to dry out pipes. Have any necessary repairs made early.

In the kitchen sanitary precautions must be observed 365 days a year. The sink must be carefully watched and kept as clean and dry as possible when

SUPPRESS SINN
FEIN PARLIAMENT

British Government to Resort to Drastic Steps to Maintain Order in Ireland

Raids in Dublin, Cork and
Other Centres—Detective Killed

DUBLIN, Sept. 13.—(By Associated Press)—Following closely upon a speech delivered by Viscount French, lord lieutenant and governor general of Ireland, at Belfast Thursday in which it was declared that the British government would not hesitate to resort to drastic steps to maintain law and order in Ireland, the authorities yesterday proclaimed the suppression of the Sinn Fein parliament and Sinn Fein organizations throughout Ireland. A series of raids and searches for arms and documents were made at the local Sinn Fein headquarters in numerous towns, in addition to Dublin, among the Cork, Belfast, Galway and Londonderry. Two prominent Sinn Fein members of the house of commons were arrested here and the residences of many persons of Sinn Fein leanings in Dublin and other places were searched. There were slight disorders in a few places, but no reports of serious resistance to the raiders have been received up to the present. A detective was shot and killed in Dublin. Seize Reports of Walsh and Dunne In the raids some arms and explosives were found. Large quantities of documents and Sinn Fein literature were seized, notably in Dublin where every copy of the report of Frank P. Walsh and Edward P. Dunne, who investigated conditions in Ireland on behalf of American Irish societies, and correspondence relating to arranging trade relations between Ireland and the United States and other foreign countries, fell into the hands of the authorities. The belief was expressed in Sinn Fein quarters here last night that nothing of an incriminating nature was found. The Gazette prints the proclamation, signed by the lord lieutenant of Ireland, prohibiting and suppressing the Sinn Fein parliament known as the "Dail Eireann." It refers to the proclamation of July 3 suppressing the Sinn Fein organizations as "unlawful associations." It describes the "Dail Eireann" as a dangerous association and says that, since July, it has been employed for all the purposes of the then suppressed organizations. The proclamation applies to the 32 counties and six county boroughs of Ireland.

Arrest Members of Parliament The two members of parliament arrested in Dublin were Ernest Blythe, member for Monaghan, North, and Patrick O'Keefe, representative for the northern division of Cork. They were removed to Dublin Castle, pending the arrival of an escort to take them to Cork, where the warrants for their arrest are supposed to have been issued. The main purpose of the raids is believed to have been to secure clues as to the whereabouts of arms and explosives which from time to time the Sinn Feiners are reported to have captured. Under last night's proclamation the "Dail Eireann" is under the Criminal Acts and its meetings are prohibited. Any member of parliament belonging to the Sinn Fein who disobeys the proclamation of the lord lieutenant will be liable to prosecution under this act. Ignored at First by Government The Irish parliament, or "Dail Eireann," as it was known in Gaelic, was formed in Dublin Jan. 21 by 25 members of the Sinn Fein party who had been elected to the British house of commons and who, in accordance with a resolution adopted by the society, refused to go to Westminster. At the inaugural meeting the Dail Eireann adopted a declaration of independence for Ireland and demanded the evacuation of the island by the British garrisons. The British government at first determined to adopt the policy of ignor-

Chilean Ministry Resigns

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 13.—The Chilean ministry has resigned. The status of the Chilean cabinet has been uncertain for some time past. On July 18 the minister of public works resigned because of differences with other members of the cabinet over railway administration problems, and the possibility of the resignation of the entire cabinet was suggested.

Refuses Demand to Extradite Bela Kun

PARIS, Sept. 13.—(Havas)—The Austrian government has refused Hungary's demand for the extradition of Bela Kun, asking for proofs of accusations of murder and theft made against him, according to Vienna newspapers. The government note to Hungary states that he brought 200,000 crowns from Budapest.

ing the "parliament" and the action taken in suppressing it yesterday is the first official action taken in its respect.

The original proclamation, issued in Dublin Wednesday, called for the suppression of the Sinn Fein organization, the Gaelic league, the Irish Volunteers and the Cumann Na Mben society in the city and county of Cork. It declared, also, that the first section of the criminal law procedure act of 1857 should be applied to the counties of Cork, Limerick, Clare, Tipperary and Dublin.

Arthur J. Balfour, at present British foreign secretary, took up the post of chief secretary for Ireland during the troublesome times in 1887, resulting from the defeat of the land purchase bill. The governing of Ireland under the so-called "ordinary law" was abandoned and a perpetual crimes act was substituted, enabling the lord lieutenant to proclaim disturbed districts and dangerous associations and substitute trials by magistrate for trial by jury for certain acts of violence.

The proclamation indicates an intention on the part of the government to return to jail most of the men imprisoned in May, 1918, under suspicion of connection with German plots, who were released by Viscount French after the signing of the armistice.

Before the censorship was abolished references to the "Irish republic" loan were prohibited, but recently they have been appearing freely in the newspapers. Yesterday the Cork Examiner printed a full page advertisement of the loan.

To Treat Movement as Seditious The view held here is that the British government now intends to treat the entire Irish republic movement as seditious, as being aimed at the overthrow of the king's authority and illegal under the treason and felony act.

Irish constitutionalists expressed the belief last night that the repressive action of the government will strengthen the Sinn Fein. Prominent Sinn Feiners asserted that it was their intention to maintain their policy of republicanism.

The detective killed in Dublin was named Hoey. He was shot dead at 8.50 o'clock outside the detective office in Townsend street. Six shots were fired at him. Hoey had given testimony at several recent court-martials and also had acted as one of the bodyguard of the lord lieutenant of Ireland.

Raids Continued CORK, Sept. 13.—The military and police raids which began yesterday in connection with proclamation of the suppression of the Sinn Fein parliament and Sinn Fein organizations throughout Ireland were continued today.

This morning the house of David Kent, Sinn Fein member of parliament, was searched.

McMaster was struck by a machine driven by Joseph E. Danvers, 24, Abbe street, Springfield, as he was walking from a street car and was taken to the Lowell hospital where he was found to be suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries.

He has been a resident of Chelmsford for several years and was employed as a painter at W. E. Westall's wall paper establishment on Central street.

McMaster is survived by his wife, Lillian E., a son, Arnold; a daughter, Ruth E., all of Chelmsford; his father,

CLEANED THE POISONS FROM HIS SYSTEM

A MASSACHUSETTS MAN GRATEFUL, Somerville, Mass. A well-known citizen of this city, who has suffered in the past, writes the following to Dr. J. F. True & Co. "I have taken all kinds of laxatives, but none of them cleared the poison from my system as your Elixir will. I know what to use hereafter considering the results it had on me, as I feel splendid now—all my system needed was a real cleaning which only your Elixir gave. Other physicians I have taken merely passed through my bowels." (Name on request.)

CLEANED THE POISONS FROM HIS SYSTEM

A MASSACHUSETTS MAN GRATEFUL, Somerville, Mass. A well-known citizen of this city, who has suffered in the past, writes the following to Dr. J. F. True & Co. "I have taken all kinds of laxatives, but none of them cleared the poison from my system as your Elixir will. I know what to use hereafter considering the results it had on me, as I feel splendid now—all my system needed was a real cleaning which only your Elixir gave. Other physicians I have taken merely passed through my bowels." (Name on request.)

FURTHER REDUCTION IN WATER DEPARTMENT

Despite the fact that only a few weeks ago Commissioner Charles J. Morse reduced the working force of the water department by 40 men, to effect a saving of $1000 per week, at the recommendation of City Auditor J. Joseph Hennessy, nevertheless, there must be further decreases in the personnel of the department if the funds now at hand are to be sufficient to carry on the water works for the rest of the present year.

Information to this effect is contained in a second communication from Mr. Hennessy which Commissioner Morse received this morning. The city auditor says that the water works appropriation on Sept. 6 amounted to only $11,873.88, and this, in reality, was money which is being used in anticipation of receipts from October, water bill payments. Not only has the department spent all its available funds, but has also spent more than half of the $25,000 which the municipal council voted a week or two ago could be expended in anticipation of October revenue.

Commissioner Morse said this morning that he did not see how he could effect any further curtailment in his department as the last reduction had brought the working force to nothing more or less than a skeleton of the department's ordinary personnel. The machine shop of the department has been closed down and the laborers given only alternate weeks of labor. Mr. Morse says that he has many applications daily for work and this makes the curtailment process so much the more difficult to bring about.

Slight rays of hope come to the commissioner in the receipt of the check from the United States Housing Corporation which arrived yesterday and which will give his department slightly over $1000, together with the fact that the Boston & Maine railroad and the park department still owe the water department bills which in the aggregate will amount to several thousand dollars.

Auditor Hennessy's letter to Mr. Morse was as follows:

Sept. 12, 1919.
Mr. Charles J. Morse, Commissioner, Water Works and Fire Protection Dept., Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir: Submitted herewith is the balance upon which can be drawn as of Sept. 6, from the appropriation designated "Water Works," to wit: $11,873.88.

You will observe, therefore, the necessary curtailment essential to the sustaining of the appropriation without causing an overdraft thereon.

It must be observed, however, that while this amount appears as a credit, yet such is not the fact for it is a deficit, being the balance of the sum of $25,000, which the auditor was authorized to issue to be paid in the half of the water works department until the October receipts shall have been made at which time the full deficit of $25,000 must be made therefrom.

Curtailment of expenditure is essential to the sustaining of the water works appropriation.

Very respectfully,
J. JOSEPH HENNESSY,
City Auditor.

Refuses to Reinstate Police

Continued

The attorney general is making every effort to answer inquiries that I have made of him. When he replies I will make a statement of my intentions.

Man Shot and Killed

Raymond Gust of Dorchester was shot and killed when he resisted a state guard near the corner of Tremont and Boylston streets. It was said that he refused to move on and when pointed with a bayonet attempted to seize the guard's gun. He received the bullet in the breast. In the excitement that followed and while the guards were dispersing the crowds another shot was fired, wounding Mrs. Mary Jacques of Dorchester, who was passing in the knee.

Governor Coolidge promptly endorsed the attitude of the police commissioner. "I, too, will be guided by the opinion of the attorney general," he said.

Bystander Shot

James McCourt, a bystander, was accidentally shot in the ankle during an attack on a volunteer policeman in the South End district this morning. Volunteer Robert P. Nolan fired the shot. Two men were arrested charged with assault.

Legion Supports Governor

The Massachusetts branch of the American Legion today announced the adoption of resolutions declaring against sympathetic strikes in aid of the police as an abrogation of civil rights and liberty; endorsing the attitude of Governor Coolidge and pledging him the support of the Massachusetts branch in maintaining law and order.

Gov. Coolidge's Statement

After his conference with the labor leaders at the state house today Governor Coolidge issued this statement:

"At a conference with labor leaders held at their request, details were presented to me of the conditions under which the policemen in Boston performed their duties. The telegram of President Coolidge was discussed. I told the committee that the matter suggested in the telegram was entirely in the hands of the police commissioner. I told them the question of whether the men who had not reported for duty were still policemen was a question of law and fact on which I had been guided by the opinion of the attorney general."

"I understood the matter of the telegram has been conveyed to Mr. Curtis. Whether he had made any decision on

Brookline Firemen to Help

The fire chief of Brookline notified Fire Commissioner John R. Murphy that the Brookline firemen were prepared to give the usual assistance to Boston when called upon. The attitude of the Brookline firemen had been sought because of the threat that the local firemen would go out.

Vote to Return

In response to a telegram from Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, the police union voted last night in favor of returning their bats providing the authorities would agree to the suggestion of Mr. Gompers that the matter of their union affiliation be held in abeyance until after a conference on the labor situation called by President Wilson for Oct. 6.

The resolutions as adopted by the union also called for the reinstatement of the 12 patrolmen who were suspended for violation of the department rule forbidding membership in outside organizations and whose reinstatement was as yet I did not know. I understood to transmit their request for a conference between President O'Donnell, Organizer McCarthy and President McInnes to the commissioner of police.

Commissioner Curtis had nothing to add to his formal statement. It was a question whether the way had been left open for the return of any men who had struck under any circumstances. This did not seem probable in view of his use of the words "new men" in reference to recruiting.

Governor Coolidge was in conference with labor leaders this morning. He had indicated earlier that he would not interfere with any action decided upon by Commissioner Curtis.

The city generally was quiet today and business went on as usual.

Action Sends Thrill Through City

The decision of the commissioner sent a thrill through the city. There was no attempt to minimize the seriousness of the new situation. It had not been known just what points of law the attorney general was considering and it had been thought possible that among them was the question of the legal right of a police officer to affiliate with the A. F. of L. in violation of the department's rule. It appears, however, that the only point passed upon by the attorney general was whether the strikers had any standing as officials of the state and this being determined in the negative, they are no longer a factor in the problem confronting the state and city which is to restore at the earliest possible hour normal police conditions in Boston.

To Organize New Force

A new police force will be organized with those who have remained on duty as a nucleus, as rapidly as possible. Until this force is able to maintain law and order it will be supplemented by the entire military resources of the state and as much federal assistance as was needed.

This program was indicated at the state house as independent of any action that may be taken by other union organizations because of today's decision. The hope was fervently expressed that the great majority of law-abiding citizens would create a sentiment contrary to which union men generally would not take action. But in any event it was made clear that the program would be carried out.

Park Police Return

The sympathetic action of 53 Metropolitan park police officers who refused to serve in Boston Wednesday night, lost some of its strength with the return to duty of 26 of the officers and their acceptance of assignments in duty in Boston. These officers patrolled boats in the South Boston district last night. They returned with a statement from Lieut. Vogel of the Metropolitan force, that they were placed on duty to maintain law rather than to take the places of strikers.

Gompers' Comment On Decision

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—When informed by the Associated Press of the action of Police Commissioner Curtis of Boston in declaring vacant the posts of the striking policemen there, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, said:

"I suppose he is willing to assume the responsibility for the consequences of his action." He would make no further comment.

their daughter, Lea, returned last night from New York, where they witnessed the great military parade in honor of General Pershing. The trip was made in their automobile.

Owing to a typographical error in the ad of Fairbairn's market in yesterday's paper three cans of Van Camp's milk were offered for twenty-seven cents when it should have been two cans for that price, which is considered a big bargain.

Two of the reconstructed prepayment cars of the Bay State system went into operation on the Highland line today. They are old-type cars made over into the more modern style and the work of removing the inner doors and remodeling the vestibules has been done at the Barns in Middlesex street. CREW PANIC STRICKEN

Vulture Perched on Spars and All Were Convinced Ship Was Doomed

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 12.—Many hours before the storm, which hunk the Ward liner Corydon in the Bahamas channel, Tuesday morning, with a loss of 27 lives, a vulture followed the ship and perched on her spars, while a panic-stricken crew believing in the superstitions of the sea, were convinced that they were doomed.

Such is the story brought here by eight of the crew who were 15 hours adrift on an upturned hulk, battered and bruised and without food or water.

All day Sunday, as the ship pursued her way in calm seas and light winds, the great bird hovered overhead.

Sunday night and Monday the Corydon staggered through the smashing seas. Monday night every member of the crew was engaged in a desperate battle for life. There was no food as the galley and provision rooms were flooded. Tuesday morning they lost control of the ship, the wireless apparatus was short circuited and no S.O.S. calls could be sent out.

BURTT IS CANDIDATE

Carl D. Burtt today announced his candidacy for the position of principal of the Lowell high school to a number of his friends in this city. Mr. Burtt is at present principal of the Arlington high school where he has been since the fall of 1917. When Herbert D. Bixby, the present headmaster of the local high school, was elected in 1917, Mr. Burtt was one of the submasters but shortly after Mr. Bixby's election left to accept the Arlington position.

POLL TAX MONEY

RED PILLS

The Best Friend of the Woman who Works.

THE woman, who is forced to earn her living in the factory, is bound to feel the strain. The long hours on her feet, the monotonous grind of doing the same thing day in and day out; the utter weariness of mind and body, will break down the strongest constitution if allowed to go on without help.

MANY a woman, who has started in the factory the very picture of health, has come out a physical wreck. Because she neglected Nature's warnings.

SHE would not heed the signs when she became pale and thin; when headaches began to bother her; when she could not eat and sleep; when she grew nervous; when the ordinary work tired her.

THESE are Nature's danger signals that Anemia is present—that the blood needs more food—that the health will be shattered unless a blood food like RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women is taken. They are the best friend of the woman who works.

RED PILLS conquer Anemia, because they feed the blood. They contain the vital substances needed to purify and enrich the blood—to overcome Anemia—to quiet the nerves, strengthen the muscles, restore the vitality, and really re-build the entire system.

EVERY woman who works needs RED PILLS to keep her in good health; or to restore her to health.

MRS. LEON HUDON, 65 Ford Street, Lowell, Mass., says: "I was forced to work very hard while still young, and when the day of my marriage approached I was in a very precarious state of health, as I was weakened through overwork and was suffering from internal pains which were making life very miserable for me. RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women soon gave me strength, and my pains gradually disappeared, with the result that now I enjoy good health and am no more troubled with the various ailments which used to upset me so."

CAUTION—The formula of RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women was first discovered in Paris, in the year of 1870, by a famous French specialist. They have been used by French women ever since. Insist on the signature of the "CIE CHIMIQUE FRANCO AMERICAINE", and a serial number on each box. RED PILLS are never sold in bulk; only in boxes, 50 cents, or 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or sent by mail on receipt of price, by the Franco-American Chemical Company Limited, 212 Milk Street, Boston, Mass. 14

30,000 GREET WILSON AT TACOMA, WASH.

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 12.—Reading to a Tacoma audience, today part of his address to congress asking a declaration of war with Germany, President Wilson declared the purpose there outlined had not yet been fulfilled, and would not be until the treaty was ratified.

Before he went to the armory the president was driven to the stadium where a great crowd welcomed him. The stadium was packed with about 20,000 persons and thousands more thronged the steps and terraces above.

In a brief address at the stadium, President Wilson said he was grateful that the children had come out to see because he felt the decisions being made now affected the children more than those of the present generation.

MORTALITY REPORT AN UNUSUAL ONE

The board of health's mortality report for the present week is a most unusual one owing to the fact that not one death of the entire 26 reported was caused by a contagious disease. Agent Francis J. O'Hare considers this a most exceptional record. There was not a single death from acute lung diseases, either.

The 26 deaths this week are in comparison with 27 the week before and 23 the previous week. The death rates for the three weeks are 12.52, 13 and 13.97, respectively. Infectious diseases reported included: Diphtheria, 5; scarlet fever, 1; tuberculosis, 5; and influenza, 2.

Commissioner Curtis Acts On Advice of Attorney General in Declaring Posts Vacant

Favors Increased Salaries for New Members—To Be Recruited from Entire State

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—Acting upon the advice of Attorney General Wyman that the offices formerly held by the policemen who deserted their posts have been rendered vacant, it was announced at Commissioner Curtis' office this noon, the police commissioner would proceed to fill these vacancies. The commissioner's statement follows:

"It is manifest that the places in the police force of Boston formerly held by the men who deserted their posts of duty have by this action been rendered vacant."

"I am advised by the attorney general that upon the existing facts, the offices formerly held by the members of the police force to whom I have referred are in fact, and in law, vacant. I shall accordingly proceed in accordance with law and in strict compliance with the requirements of the civil service laws to fill these vacancies with new men."

"I have submitted to the mayor of Boston recommendations for immediate adoption relating to a revision of salaries for the lowest paid members of the police force; and I shall later submit recommendations for a revision of the entire salary list."

"I have further requested the civil service commissioner to grant me authority to appoint to the police force any veterans as defined by chapter 150 of the general acts of 1912, whether such veteran be a resident of Boston or not."

"The attorney general has ruled that such veteran must be a resident of the commonwealth but need not be a resident of the city of Boston."

LOWELL MILLS MAY TURN FROM COAL TO OIL

The big textile mills of Lowell are giving earnest consideration to the subject of going over from coal to oil power and although it is not expected that such changes will be made this year, it is nevertheless admitted that the burning of coal for the generation of power in this city will become a thing of the past within a comparatively short time.

At the present time there is only one mill, the Ray State of the American Woolen Corp., which uses oil power. Approximately 60 per cent. of local mill power is furnished by coal and the balance by water.

It is said that four barrels of fuel oil furnish as much power as a ton of coal and the cost is less in many parts of the country. This is one of the clinching arguments being considered by Lowell mill men, while another is that to fuel coal requires firemen and entails heavy and continuing expense.

Many large manufacturing centres in the east already have made extensive changes in their fuel systems. As in Lowell, the textile corporations of New Bedford and Fall River are making plans for such a change.

In anticipation of this rather revolutionary step oil companies are building great supply stations at Providence and other New England ports and many orders have been placed by mills for large oil storage tanks. The Charles at Fall River is one of the biggest mills that has gone over to oil fuel, while the famous King Philip is to follow suit, it is said.

It is not a staggering proposition to change coal boilers over to oil burners. The Ray State mill here when it made the change, reconstructed one of its old boilers and installed one new oil burner.

What it would mean if the textile industry abandoned coal may be appreciated when it is said that there are about $400 million of this kind in America. All of these do not use coal, however. In the south hydro-electric energy is utilized to some extent and water power is employed elsewhere, but it is safe to say that 90 per cent. of the mills depend on coal.

There is no expectation that coal is coming down in price and therefore, there is economy in oil today. However, it seems probable, with the thousands of streams of water flowing over the land, that water will eventually supplant oil. It has been said that only one-half of one per cent. of the water power that might be employed in United States is harnessed today.

Cities which experience the discomfort of soot and dirt pouring out in smoke from mill chimneys will welcome the coming of oil-burners, for such power gives out practically no smoke.

OPPOSITION TO TRIAL OF FORMER KAISER

ROME, Thursday, Sept. 11.—Opposition to the trial of William Hohenzollern is expressed in a report of the parliamentary commission entrusted with the examination of the peace treaty with Germany. The report was presented to the Chamber of Deputies today by Luigi Luzzatto.

"Crimes attributed to the former emperor were not contemplated in any penal code," the report says. "Nobody can be called to answer and be punished for an act which, when committed, did not constitute a crime contemplated by law. The society of nations may establish for the future the criminal status of offenses against international morality or disregard of treaties, lay down the procedure for judging the culprit and provide for the penalty, but Count Hohenzollern's accusers cannot appoint judges, and it is impossible to ask Hohenzollern to extrajudicially to answer for political crimes not within the purview of present treaties. The former emperor must be placed in a condition where he can do no harm, but the eternal ideas which guarantee public and private law must be saved."

The report urges a maximum diminution of military expenses and expresses the hope that the League of Nations will facilitate the admission of the countries responsible for the war, including Germany. It also says that at the coming international labor conference at Washington legisla-

K. OF C. COMMITTEE ON WAR ACTIVITIES

The Knights of Columbus committee on war activities have gone on record to protest the movement started by the War department which would oust all welfare organizations in their work about the camps and military reservations, and put such work in the hands of the army authorities. Just now the Knights stand in their attitude towards the project of the government developed at a recent meeting of the committee held at Copley Square hotel, Boston, Mass. Their protest came in reply to a suggestion from Col. Jason S. Joy, executive officer of the commission on training camp activities of War department. Col. Joy wanted to know what the viewpoint of the Knights of Columbus was in regard to "the cessation of all activities in the camps by welfare societies, to be succeeded by the army officials."

In reply, the following statement was quickly forthcoming from the K-C committee:

"To tell Col. Joy that the Knights of Columbus stand today, as always, ready to comply with any order of his commission representing the War department, including, of course, the withdrawal of all war activities in the camps, is, however, it is the intention of the department to ask the withdrawal of Knights of Columbus and all other war agencies within the camps, we feel that we ought to state our position on the broad question involved, namely as to the conduct in the future of all welfare, recreational and educational work by the War department as a part of its regular work. We are opposed to any attempt to institutionalize the activities heretofore conducted by the so-called War Welfare societies. From our experience we can safely say that the men in service welcome a relief from war supervision and military methods. They welcome the relief and willingly respond to the services of civilians to whom they owe no special duty of military deference and obedience. It is a relief from the restraint of official supervision for them to receive a touch of home life and neighborly assistance within the camps. The service in spiritual matters by outside ministers, rabbis, and priests has also been a grateful relief from military life. Ready to leave the service, if so ordered, we nevertheless wish to record our protest against the proposed new policy in refusing (unless asked for these purposes by the War department, the very willing contribution of the public for the maintenance of this work by welfare societies, the hearty response and appreciation of the men in service, the very inherent contrast between military rule and discipline and recreational and educational work at the hands of friendly civilians all speak against the taking over of this work by the army as one of its regular functions."

There are weather conditions that make rheumatism worse. They are not the same in the cases of all persons. Some victims of this disease suffer more in dry warm weather than in moist cold weather, but all suffer more or less all the time.

The cause of rheumatism is an excess of uric acid in the blood, affecting the muscles and joints. Hence the blood must have attention for permanent results in the treatment of this disease.

MARMALADES! VEGETABLES—OR FRUIT

BY BIDDY BYE

The early September air is sweet with the smell of spices, cooking sugar and fruits—and no wonder—for it's the delicious season the housewife holds sacred to marmalade.

Marmalade—in the preserved fruit world—is a sort of simplified fruit butter. The old-fashioned apple and peach butters have a tremendous undertaking—involving long hours of cooking, much sugar, and much arduous stirring. Marmalade achieves much the same consistency as fruit butters and an even superior richness and delicacy of flavor. Usually it is made and packed in moderate quantities so that it is easier to handle and affords greater possibilities of variety.

Here are some excellent marmalade recipes—both fruit and vegetable.

CARROT MARMALADE

4 cupsful ground carrots.
3 cupsful sugar.
4 lemons.
4 teaspoonfuls ground ginger root.
Cook carrots until tender and add the sugar. Slice the lemons very thin and remove the seeds. Cut the slices in quarters. Add to the carrots and cook very slowly until thick and clear looking. Stir only enough to keep from burning. Pack in hot, sterilized pint jars or glasses and boil 5 minutes in hot-water bath. Seal.

DIXIE MARMALADE

2 cupsful ground carrots.
1½ cupsful chopped sweet green peppers.
2 lemons.
2 cupsful rhubarb, cut fine.
2 cupsful sugar.
Ginger root to flavor.
Cook carrots, add sugar and sliced lemons and pepper. Add ground ginger root and cook until thick. Pack in sterilized glasses or jars and boil 5 minutes in hot water bath.

RIPE TOMATO MARMALADE

2 dozen medium sized tomatoes.
2½ cupsful sugar.
3 lemons.
Peel and slice the tomatoes thin and remove seeds. Slice lemons including rinds, remove seeds and quarter. Cook tomatoes soft, add lemons and sugar and cook until thick. Seal in sterilized jars and cook in hot water bath 5 minutes.

QUINCE MARMALADE

3 large apples.
3 quinces.
Water to cover.
Wash, peel and core apples and quinces, saving the cores and parings. Boil the fruit with enough water to cover until tender. Boil the cores and parings with water to cover. Rub the tender fruit through a sieve, and add the strained juice from the parings. Measure the fruit and add 1 scant cup of sugar or less for each cup of pulp. Cook the fruit with the sugar until thick. Pour in sterile glasses, seal with paraffin. This quantity of fruit makes one quart of marmalade.

ORANGE MARMALADE

Wash and remove seeds of 1 grapefruit, 1 orange and 1 lemon. Squeeze the juice from all the fruit and put the rinds through a meat chopper. Measure pulp and juice and add three times the quantity of water. Put all in an enameled bowl or china bowl and let stand over night. Next day boil the mixture for 15 minutes. Cool and add the sugar, cup for cup, and boil again until thick and clear. Pour in sterile glasses and seal.

PEAR MARMALADE

To 1 pound of ripe, juicy pears peeled and cored, allow 1 pound of sugar and the grated rind and juice of 1 lemon or orange. Cook down until thick, stirring often, pour in sterile glasses and seal.

PINEAPPLE MARMALADE

Peel and core fresh, ripe pineapple and cut in small pieces. Allow ¾ of a pound of sugar for each pound of fruit, mix and let stand overnight in a porcelain bowl set in a cool place. Next morning cook the fruit gently for 1 hour, press the fruit through a coarse sieve, and cook half-hour longer until clear and golden. Place in glasses or small pots and seal.

MR. G. A. SKELLY LEAVES

Manager of Saunders' Market Goes to Pittsburg to Take Charge of Two Stores

Mr. Gregory A. Skelly for over four and a half years manager of Saunders' market on Gorham street, leaves today to take charge of two large stores of the Mohican company in Pittsburg, Pa.

Those who have been acquainted with Mr. Skelly during his stay in this city will regret his leaving, as he was at all times a most courteous and obliging gentleman.

Before coming to Lowell he had extensive training and experience with the Mohican company which has many great stores throughout the country. His last engagement was in Haverhill, Mass. This concern, it is understood, has made him a flattering offer to go to Pittsburg and manage two of its stores which are but a short distance apart.

Under Mr. Skelly's management the Saunders' market, which is the largest grocery emporium in New England outside Boston, did a very large and prosperous business. Even through the stress of war times its large clientele of patrons steadily increased.

Before the hour of closing last night, Mr. Thomas Gannon went to Mr. Skelly and informed him that the store clerks appeared to have organized a union and it looked as if they were about to strike. "They want to see you right away," said Mr. Gannon.

"That's impossible," said Mr. Skelly. "They are all satisfied with conditions. I'll see what they want."

Mr. Gannon acted as spokesman for the assembly, and addressing Mr. Skelly, he said:

"In behalf of the employees of Saunders' market, I have to express to you, Mr. Skelly, their feeling of deep regret at your departure from Saunders' market and from Lowell. In the four odd years during which we have been associated with you, our relations have been of the most friendly character. We have always found you candid, straightforward, courteous and considerate, and it gives all of us great pleasure to present to you a few tokens of the high esteem in which you are held by the employees of Saunders' market. These we hope in years to come will serve to remind you of the years you have spent in Lowell and of the friends who in this far-off meeting wish you unbounded success and happiness wherever fate may call you.

The gifts included a gift certificate for a suit case and other articles useful to anybody who travels. Mr. Skelly, completely surprised, expressed his high appreciation of the feeling that prompted this presentation, thanked the clerks for this mark of good feeling and friendship and said that wherever he went he would always have pleasant recollections of Saunders' market and all those with whom he had been associated in the capacity of manager.

He left Lowell on an afternoon train for New York, where he will rest for a week before going to Pittsburg.

GLASGOW, Sept. 13.—The Trades Union Congress today unanimously adopted a resolution deprecating military rule in Ireland and declaring that the only solution of the Irish problem was through self determination by which the Irish people could work out their own salvation. The resolution expressed profound sympathy for the Irish people and their brethren in their hour of repression. It was moved by John Henry Thomas, labor member of parliament, and seconded by Robert Smillie, the miners' leader.

The congress also passed resolutions reaffirming the right of free speech and protesting against the arrest and deportation of alien trades union officials for alleged connection with bolshevism. The resolutions also expressed belief in the necessity for continuing the control of food prices.

GEN. PERSHING AT WASHINGTON

Receives Thanks of Nation
for Leading American
Forces to Victory

Marshal Greets General in
President's Place—Pershing
Lauds Women

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—With the plaudits of New York and Philadelphia still ringing in his ears, Gen. John J. Pershing arrived in Washington yesterday and received a foretaste of the more formal greeting he will receive next week when he leads the 1st Division up historic Pennsylvania avenue in the nation's victory parade. As he stepped from his special train at the station, the man who led the American army to victory in France heard a cry of greeting rise from the hundreds of women and girls who lined his pathway. As he stood later with bare head before Vice President Marshall in the president's waiting room to receive the welcome of the president and the nation, again it was women and girls, armed with flags and flowers who surrounded him. There was little of the pomp of war about the conqueror's return.

The reception, with the exception of these lines of school girls and women of the government departments and the greeting extended in President Wilson's name by Vice President Marshall, was informal. Secretary Baker and Gen. March, chief of staff, greeted Gen. Pershing at the train and escorted him to the room where the vice president awaited him.

Address of Vice President

In greeting the commander, Vice President Marshall said:

"You are not only welcome to the capital of your own republic, but you are welcome back to the land of your nativity. Your commander-in-chief bids me in his behalf and in behalf of the American people to greet you."

"It is a glad duty to be inadequately performed, for human expression has not yet found the way to voice in language the deeper and finer sentiments of our natures. Perhaps you can gain some slight conception of the real joy with which we hail your home-coming when I tell you that you occupy the most unique position in all the world's history."

"Unnumbered and unremembered conquerors have returned from foreign lands bearing, chained to their chariot wheels, the writhing human evidences of conquest and supremacy over alien peoples. To you it has been vouchsafed to lead the greatest expeditionary force of all time through perils at sea, perils of land and perils of air, to the ultimate accomplishment of your heart's desire. You come rather in meekness and humility of spirit, saying to the great American people that as the Nazarene died to make men holy, so their sons have died to make men free."

"You, their surviving commander, come back to us with no evidence of lost and conquest, but with the triumphs of the soul and spirit of liberty and law, to assure us that the cause in which they have died was a sacred cause, that the motives which moved them did not pass away with their expiring breath."

"In the name of my countrymen and my president, I salute you. Hail the patriot, farewell to the conqueror and yet again, hail."

Tribute to Women

Possibly it was the great preponderance of women in the crowd about him that led Gen. Pershing to pay high tribute to the women of America in his haltingly delivered reply to the vice president. In the ungrudging confidence the president had reposed in him, he said, he had found constant strength for the tasks that had fallen to him, but he added that it was the high courage of the women of America that had made possible victory complete and final.

Preceded by a clattering cavalry escort, Gen. Pershing was taken to his hotel by Mr. Marshall in the latter's automobile. A draped army car, flying the general's four-starred banner, was in waiting, but the vice president would have none of it and personally conducted the man who has come home as his country's honored guest to the hotel that is to be his temporary home in Washington. All along the line of the swift-moving procession the street crowds waved and cheered.

HOUSEWIFE MAY BE SANITATION EXPERT

BY BIDDY BYE

Every housewife may—even must be—an amateur sanitary expert—and one everlastingly on the job—in the battle against dirt and disease which carry the fight right into the home.

Now is the season to take all precautions and preventive measures against the germs and dust that will aid and abet "flu" weather when it comes.

Clean up the yard, and burn all rubbish. Carefully dry out and ventilate the cellar by leaving all doors and windows open all day on several sunny days.

Clean out and prepare all storage bins for vegetables and shelves or closets for fruit. Clean the cement or dirt floors and give the walls and ceiling a good coat of whitewash.

If there is a dirt floor sweep it well and sprinkle thoroughly with a good disinfectant.

See that the heating plant is clean and in order. Burn paper and trash in the furnace to dry out pipes. Have any necessary repairs made early.

In the kitchen sanitary precautions must be observed 365 days a year. The sink must be carefully watched and kept as clean and dry as possible when

SUPPRESS SINN FEIN PARLIAMENT

British Government to Resort to Drastic Steps to Maintain Order in Ireland

Raids in Dublin, Cork and Other Centres—Detective Killed

DUBLIN, Sept. 13.—(By Associated Press).—Following closely upon a speech delivered by Viscount French, lord lieutenant and governor general of Ireland, at Belfast Thursday in which it was declared that the British government would not hesitate to resort to drastic steps to maintain law and order in Ireland, the authorities yesterday proclaimed the suppression of the Sinn Fein parliament and Sinn Fein organizations throughout Ireland.

A series of raids and searches for arms and documents were made at the local Sinn Fein headquarters in numerous towns, in addition to Dublin, among the Cork, Belfast, Galway and Londonderry. Two prominent Sinn Fein members of the house of commons were arrested here and the residences of many persons of Sinn Fein leanings in Dublin and other places were searched.

There were slight disorders in a few places, but no reports of serious resistance to the raiders have been received up to the present. A detective was shot and killed in Dublin.

Seize Reports of Walsh and Dunne

In the raids some arms and explosives were found. Large quantities of documents and Sinn Fein literature were seized, notably in Dublin, where every copy of the report of Frank P. Walsh and Edward F. Dunne, who investigated conditions in Ireland on behalf of American Irish societies, and correspondence relating to arranging trade relations between Ireland and the United States and other foreign countries, fell into the hands of the authorities. The belief was expressed in Sinn Fein quarters here last night that nothing of an incriminating nature was found.

The Gazette prints the proclamation, signed by the lord lieutenant of Ireland, prohibiting and suppressing the Sinn Fein parliament known as the "Dail Eireann."

It refers to the proclamation of July 3 suppressing the Sinn Fein organizations as unlawful associations. It describes the "Dail Eireann" as a dangerous association and says that, since July, it has been employed for all the purposes of the then suppressed organizations. The proclamation applies to the 32 counties and six county boroughs of Ireland.

Arrest Members of Parliament

The two members of parliament arrested in Dublin were Ernest Blythe, member for Monaghan, North, and Patrick O'Keefe, representative for the northern division of Cork. They were removed to Dublin Castle, pending the arrival of an escort to take them to Cork, where the warrants for their arrest are supposed to have been issued.

The main purpose of the raids is believed to have been to secure clues as to the whereabouts of arms and explosives which from time to time the Sinn Feiners are reported to have captured.

Under last night's proclamation the "Dail Eireann" is under the Crimes Acts and its meetings are prohibited. Any member of parliament belonging to the Sinn Fein who disobeys the proclamation of the lord lieutenant will be liable to prosecution under this act.

Ignored at First by Government

The Irish parliament, or "Dail Eireann," as it was known in Gaelic, was formed in Dublin Jan. 21 by 25 members of the Sinn Fein party who had been elected to the British house of commons and who, in accordance with a resolution adopted by the society, refused to go to Westminster. At the inaugural meeting the Dail Eireann adopted a declaration of independence for Ireland and demanded the evacuation of the island by the British garrisons.

The British government at first determined to adopt the policy of ignor-

With Terrible Stomach Trouble Until She Tried "FRUIT-A-LIVES"

MRS. F. S. STOLZ

8507 Sacto Ave., Sacramento, Cal.

"I had Stomach Trouble for 10 years, which became so bad that I got Stomach Cramps two or three times a week.

After years of terrible torture, I read about 'Fruit-a-lives' or Fruit Laver Tablets, and sent for a trial box and wrote that it was the last remedy I would use—if 'Fruit-a-lives' did not help me, I would die.

After taking the trial box, I felt better, so kept on taking 'Fruit-a-lives' for nearly a year, and am thankful to say 'Fruit-a-lives' saved my life.

It also saved a friend from an operation for Stomach Trouble, after he had given up all hope of getting well."

ing the "parliament," and the action taken in suppressing it yesterday is the first official action taken in its respect.

The original proclamation, issued in Dublin Wednesday, called for the suppression of the Sinn Fein organization, the Gaelic league, the Irish Volunteers and the Cumann Na Mbea society in the city and county of Cork. It declared, also, that the first section of the criminal law procedure act of 1887 should be applied to the counties of Cork, Limerick, Clare, Tipperary and Dublin.

This week we ask you to try Jiffy-Jell in two of our favorite flavors. Try Loganberry, our finest berry flavor—and Pineapple. We use half a pineapple to make the flavor for one Jiffy-Jell dessert.

We crush these fruits, then condense the juice and seal it in a vial. Each package of Jiffy-Jell contains a bottle of this fruit-juice essence.

You add to Jiffy-Jell a pint of water. Then add the flavor from the bottle and cool the jelly in molds. Then you have a rich dessert with a wealth of real-fruit flavor, and at trifling cost.

Tart, Zestful Salads

Then we suggest the Lime-fruit flavor, tart and green. And the Mint flavor, rich in fresh-mint essence.

These are for salad jells and garnish jells. Mix in fruits or vegetables—whatever you wish for the salad—and make a salad loaf. Serve with dressing or without.

Or mix in meat scraps and make a meat loaf—great in aspic. Use up left-overs in this way.

bill. The governing of Ireland under the so-called "ordinary law" was abandoned and a perpetual crimes act was substituted, enabling the lord lieutenant to proclaim disturbed districts and dangerous associations and substitute trials by magistrate for trial by jury for certain acts of violence.

The proclamation indicates an intention on the part of the government to return to jail most of the men imprisoned in May, 1918, under suspicion of connection with German plots, who were released by Viscount French after the signing of the armistice.

Before the censorship was abolished references to the "Irish republic" loan were prohibited, but recently they have been appearing freely in the newspapers. Yesterday the Cork Examiner printed a full page advertisement of the loan.

To Treat Movement as Sedition

The view held here is that the British government now intends to treat the entire Irish republic movement as sedition, as being aimed at the overthrow of the king's authority and illegal under the treason and felony act.

Irish constitutionalists expressed the belief last night that the repressive action of the government will strengthen the Sinn Fein. Prominent Sinn Feiners asserted that it was their intention to maintain their policy of republicanism.

The detective killed in Dublin was named Heey. He was shot dead at 2.30 o'clock outside the detective office in Townsend street. Six shots were fired at him. Heey had given testimony at several recent court-martials and also had acted as one of the bodyguard of the lord lieutenant of Ireland.

CORK, Sept. 13.—The military and police raids which began yesterday in connection with proclamation of the suppression of the Sinn Fein parliament and Sinn Fein organizations, throughout Ireland were continued today.

TO ENTER COLLEGE SOON

Liston Going to Lehigh and Arthur Lynch Heading Toward Notre Dame

Jim Liston, one of the best football players ever turned out at Lowell high, will enter Lehigh college this fall. According to his present plans he will leave Lowell within a week or two, for although school does not commence until the 25th, the football candidates have been asked to report earlier.

Liston should have little difficulty in making a first string position in the Lehigh back field. Undoubtedly he will work out at left half, his favorite place, and he should land it with both feet. Tom Brady is coaching Lehigh football and has a good idea of the Lowell boy's worth. Last year Jimmy played left halfback on the Bunkin Island naval team and in championship games with Camp Devens was the marked man on the field. He broke away once for 60 yards after a kickoff and through the game, which his team won 14 to 7, carried the ball almost continuously.

Arthur Lynch, another football star turned out at Lowell high, and who is a first class basketball player, will enter a prep school or college this fall, but has made up his mind to stick to the automobile business in Boston. He would have had a steady future as a high jumper in any college as he was the ranking schoolboy jumper in Massachusetts for two years and under advanced training would easily have cleared a meter and a half.

Pat Mallard, another track man of prominence, is back at high school for post-graduate work this year.

FURTHER REDUCTION IN WATER DEPARTMENT

Despite the fact that only a few weeks ago Commissioner Charles J. Morse reduced the working force of the water department by 40 men, to effect a saving of $1000 per week, at the recommendation of City Auditor J. Joseph Hennessy, nevertheless, there must be further decreases in the personnel of the department if the funds now at hand are to be sufficient to carry on the water works for the rest of the present year.

Information to this effect is contained in a second communication from Mr. Hennessy which Commissioner Morse received this morning. The city auditor says that the water works appropriation on Sept. 6 amounted to only $11,873.58, and thus, in reality, was money which is being used in anticipation of receipts from October water bill payments. Not only has the department spent all its available funds, but has also spent more than half of the $25,000 which the municipal council voted a week or two ago could be expended in anticipation of October revenue.

Commissioner Morse said this morning that he did not see how he could effect any further curtailment in his department as the last reduction had brought the working force to nothing more or less than a skeleton of the department's ordinary personnel. The machine shop of the department has been closed down and the laborers given only alternate weeks of labor. Mr. Morse says that he has many applications daily for work and this makes the curtailment process so much the more difficult to bring about.

Slight rays of hope come to the commissioner in the receipt of the check from the United States Housing corporation which arrived yesterday and which will give his department slightly over $1000, together with the fact that the Boston & Maine railroad and the park department still owe the water department bills which in the aggregate will amount to several thousand dollars.

Auditor Hennessy's letter to Mr. Morse was as follows:

Sept. 12, 1919.
Mr. Charles J. Morse, Commissioner, Water Works and Fire Protection Dept., Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir: Submitted herewith is the balance upon which has been drawn of Sept. 6, from the appropriation designated "Water Works," to wit: $11,873.58.

You will observe, therefore, the necessary curtailment essential to the sustaining of the appropriation without causing an overdraft thereon.

It must be observed, however, that while this amount appears as a credit, yet such is not the fact, for it is a deficit, being the balance of the sum of $25,000, which the auditor was authorized to cause to be paid in the behalf of the water works department until the October receipts shall have been made at which time the full deficit of $55,000 must be made therefrom.

Curtailment of expenditure is essential to the sustaining of the water works appropriation.

Very respectfully,
J. JOSEPH HENNESSY,
City Auditor.

Refuses to Reinstate Police

The attorney general is making every effort to answer inquiries that I have made of him. When he replies I will make a statement of my intentions."

Man Shot and Killed

Raymond Gust of Dorchester was shot and killed when he resisted a state guard near the corner of Tremont and Boylston streets. It was said that he refused to move on and when prodded with a bayonet attempted to seize the guard's gun. He received the bullet in the breast. In the excitement that followed and while the guards were dispersing the crowds another shot was fired, wounding Mrs. Mary Jacques of Dorchester, who was passing in the knee.

Governor Coolidge promptly endorsed the attitude of the police commissioner. "I, too, will be guided by the opinion of the attorney general," he said.

Bystander Shot

James McCourt, a bystander, was accidentally shot in the ankle during an attack on a volunteer policeman in the South End district this morning. Volunteer Robert P. Nolan fired the shot. Two men were arrested charged with assault.

Legion Supports Governor

The Massachusetts branch of the American Legion today announced the adoption of resolutions declaring against sympathetic strikes in aid of the police as an abrogation of civil rights and liberty; endorsing the attitude of Governor Coolidge and pledging him the support of the Massachusetts branch in maintaining law and order.

Gov. Coolidge's Statement

After his conference with the labor leaders at the state house today Governor Coolidge issued this statement:

"At a conference with labor leaders held at their request, details were presented to me of the conditions under which the policemen in Boston performed their duties. The telegram of President Gompers was discussed.

"I told the committee that the matter suggested in the telegram was entirely in the hands of the police commissioner. I told them not to report for duty until the men who had not reported for duty were still policemen was a question of law and fact on which I had been guided by the opinion of the attorney general.

"I understood the matter of the telegram has been conveyed to Mr. Curtis. Whether he had made any decision on it as yet I did not know. I undertook to transmit their request for a conference between President O'Donnell, Organizer McCarthy and President Melanes to the commissioner of police."

Commissioner Curtis had nothing to add to his formal statement. It was a question whether the way had been left open for the return of any men who had struck under any circumstances. "This did not seem probable in view of his use of the words 'new men' in reference to recruiting.

Governor Coolidge was in conference with labor leaders this morning. He had indicated earlier that he would not interfere with any action decided upon by Commissioner Curtis.

To Organize New Force

A new police force will be organized with those who have remained on duty as a nucleus, as rapidly as possible. Until this force is able to maintain law and order it will be supplemented by the entire military resources of the state and as much federal assistance as was needed.

This program was indicated at the state house as independent of any action that may be taken by other union organizations because of today's decision. The hope was fervently expressed that the great majority of law-abiding citizens would create a sentiment contrary to which union men begrudgingly would not take action. But in any event it was made clear that the program would be carried out.

Brookline Firemen to Help

The fire chief of Brookline notified Fire Commissioner John R. Murphy that the Brookline firemen were prepared to give the usual assistance to Boston when called upon. The attitude of the Brookline firemen had been sought because of the threat that the local firemen would go out.

Vote to Return

In response to a telegram from Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, the police union voted last night in favor of returning their best men providing the authorities would agree to the suggestion of Mr. Gompers that the matter of their union affiliation be held in abeyance until after a conference on the labor situation called by President Wilson for Oct. 6.

The resolutions as adopted by the union also called for the reinstatement of the 12 patrolmen who were suspended for violation of the department's forbidding membership in outside organizations and whose suspension was

Park Police Return

The sympathetic action of 53 Metropolitan park police officers who refused to serve in Boston Wednesday night, lost some of its strength with the return to duty of 25 of the officers and their acceptance of assignments to duty in Boston. These officers patrolled beats in the South Boston district last night. They returned with a statement from Lieut. Vogel of the Metropolitan force, that they were placed on duty to maintain law rather than to take the places of strikers.

Gompers' Comment on Decision

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—When informed by the Associated Press of the action of Police Commissioner Curtis of Boston in declaring vacant the posts of the striking policemen there, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, said:

"I suppose he is willing to assume the responsibility for the consequences of his action." He would make no further comment.

RED PILLS

The Best Friend of the Woman who Works.

THE woman who is forced to earn her living in the factory, is bound to feel the strain. The long hours on her feet, the monotonous grind of doing the same thing, day in and day out; the utter weariness of mind and body, will break down the strongest constitution if allowed to go on without help.

MANY a woman, who has started in the factory the very picture of health, has come out a physical wreck. Because she neglected Nature's warnings.

SHE would not heed the signs when she became pale and thin; when headaches began to bother her; when she could not eat and sleep; when she grew nervous; when the ordinary work tired her.

THESE are Nature's danger signals that Anemia is present—that the blood needs more food—that the health will be shattered unless a blood food like RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women is taken. They are the best friend of the woman who works.

RED PILLS conquer Anemia, because they feed the blood. They contain the vital substances needed to purify and enrich the blood—to overcome Anemia—to quiet the nerves, strengthen the muscles, restore the vitality, and really re-build the entire system.

EVERY woman who works needs RED PILLS to keep her in good health; or to restore her to health.

MRS. LEON HUDON, 65 Ford Street, Lowell, Mass., says: "I was forced to work very hard while still young, and when the day of my marriage approached I was in a very precarious state of health, as I was weakened through overwork and was suffering from internal pains which were making life very miserable for me. RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women soon gave me strength, and my pains gradually disappeared. With the result that now I enjoy good health and am no more troubled with the various ailments which used to upset me so."

CAUTION.—The formula of RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women was first discovered in Paris, in the year of 1870, by a famous French specialist. They have been used by French women ever since. Insist on the signature of the "CIE CHIMIQUE FRANCO AMERICAINE", and a serial number on each box. RED PILLS are never sold in bulk; only in boxes, 50 cents, or 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or sent by mail on receipt of price, by the Franco-American Chemical Company Limited, 212 Milk Street, Boston, Mass. 14.

CREW PANIC STRICKEN

Vulture Perched on Spars and All Were Convinced Ship Was Doomed

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 12.—Many hours before the storm, while hunked the Ward liner Corydon in the Bahamas channel. Tuesday morning, with a loss of 27 lives, a vulture followed the ship and perched on her spars, while a panic-stricken crew believing in the superstitions of the sea, were convinced that they were doomed.

Such is the story brought here by eight of the crew who were 53 hours adrift on an upturned boat, battered and bruised and without food or water.

All day Sunday, as the ship pursued her way in calm seas and light winds, the great bird hovered overhead.

Sunday night and Monday the Corydon staggered through the smashing seas. Monday night every member of the crew was engaged in a desperate battle for life. There was no food as the galley and provision rooms were flooded. Tuesday morning they lost control of the ship, the wireless apparatus was short circuited and no S.O.S. calls could be sent out.

GET GOAT OR TWO AND BEAT OUT THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

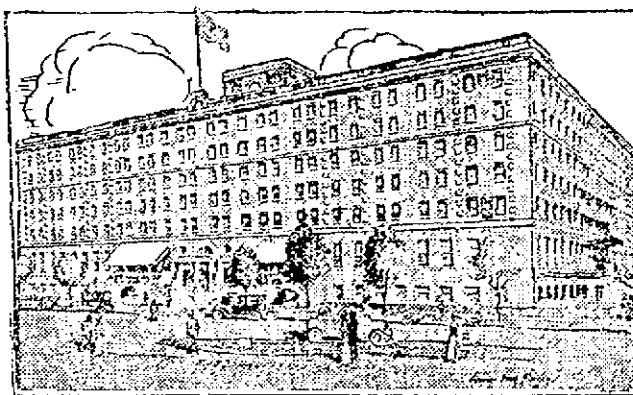

Humble Beast, Popular With Mexicans, Is Recommended by United States Department of Agriculture as Money-Saver

BY ROBERT P. DORMAN.
N. E. A. Staff Correspondent.
PASO, Texas, Sept. 13.—The United States department of agriculture believes that if goats can be made fashionable, the high cost of living will be considerably undermined.
Mexicans of the southwest depend largely on their goat herds for milk and meat. Children and aged women spend the long sunny days in company of the goats, seeing that they do not stray.
A goat will thrive on anything it can bite off and chew. A goat requires less space than a cow or a pig. Goat's milk is rich, creamy, nutritious and free from bacteria. Babies thrive on it and 17 different and delicious kinds of cheese can be made from it.
The initial expense of a goat is small and the upkeep, in summer, is nothing. All that is required is seasonal supervision to prevent a goat from devouring shade trees, hampsteads, hollyhocks, door mats, rubber plants and the week's washing.
In Europe, American soldiers became accustomed to the presence of goats. These animals are the mainstay of peasant homes. In the first place, they give grandma something to do. After she is too old to sow and swing a scythe in addition the railway at present is due to its penurious policy towards the riding public. It is always whining for higher fares and it never offers its patrons even an ice cream cone or a bag of peanuts, much less a delicious slice from a roasted ox, such as was served at Lakeview 25 years ago. Strange to say, but it is a fact, the psychological importance of which might well be investigated, the railroad of this country began to go down hill from the very day they stopped issuing free passes. As everybody now-a-days is offering a solution of the railroad problem I thought I might as well present this just to give the public utility corporations a tip on how they can pull themselves out of the hole. Organize barbeques and restore free tickets to newspaper men, politicians and politicians. It works like a charm.

The far-off ancestors of these goats grazed the green hills of Spain. Mexicans are largely independent of the milkman and the butcher because practically every family has a goat or two. Fresh milk is guaranteed to town dwellers who do not own goats, because the animals are driven through the streets and milked in front of customers' homes. Nanny goats are of mild disposition. Billy goats in real life are by no means as savage as they are in the funny papers.

Live Contest

Continued

The state primaries will be held Tuesday and will be a continuous performance from 2 p. m. until 3 p. m.

Long and Foss

On the democratic side, in the primary campaign, the main contest in this city is for the head of the ticket. Thus far it appears that the only candidates who have made any impression here are Richard H. Long, who was the nominee last year and gave Mr. Cook a close run for election. His friends claim he is the logical candidate this year. Mr. Long addressed Lowell citizens here two weeks ago setting forth his platform including a 5 cent fare on the street railways under state operation, the deficits, if any, to be made up by a graduated tax on incomes of men who are not paying a fair share of the taxes levied on the people. Mr. Long has many constructive policies for the betterment of all classes which he promises to put into operation if elected. He favors self-determination for Ireland and other small nations and has been outspoken in providing lands for the men who served overseas and otherwise treating them in a generous way. He is also strongly in favor of promoting the Merrimack river navigation project. Speakers in Mr. Long's interest will be here tonight.

Eugene N. Foss, governor of Massachusetts

chubets in 1916, 1917 and 1918, and candidate for governor this year, will hold a rally in Lowell this evening and will speak at the principal downtown points. Mr. Foss has many Lowell friends working for him this year and they are pointing to the fact that the former governor appointed Judge Nathan D. Pratt and Judge Thomas J. Wright of this city to the bench. Mr. Foss also appointed Patrick P. Sullivan of this city chairman of the industrial accident insurance board of trustees. In his published statement for the present campaign the former governor sums up the legislation passed during his career as the state's chief executive and quotes the plans for the development of the Merrimack river as part of that legislation.

Included in his platform in the present campaign are immediate legislation against profiteers in food products, five-cent trolley fares, prison reform, old age pensions and self-determination for Ireland and all nationalities. Ex-Senator George F. Monahan, another candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, spoke at Tower's Corner last night. He also has a lengthy platform.

Other State Contests

Beyond the interest being stirred up in the contest for governor by the various aspirants for Governor Coolidge's position, there is very little excitement over the coming primaries as far as state-wide contests are concerned.

REP. BLANTON DEMANDS QUORUM AND BLOCKS BUSINESS.

Has Wasted 20 Legislative Days by Squeaking Quorum on Unimportant Measures—Sweet Cider Saved in Prohibition Bill

(Special to The Sun.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 13.—In the four months which have passed since congress convened in extra session last May, for the specific purpose of passing appropriation bills to provide revenue for running the nation the fiscal year of 1919-20, much legislation far beyond that scope has been enacted, and it is well pleased with the work it has accomplished.

The Peace Treaty

The senate has devoted much time to the peace treaty and League of Nations, and discussion on that topic has cropped out in nearly every discussion of purely domestic questions. It is in the air, and no matter on what road a bill starts out in opening a debate, he is pretty certain to end by bringing in the League of Nations before he gets through. The committee of both senate and house are especially active, and before them are the great problems of reconstruction. If obstructive methods can be shouted to a side track the extra session is quite likely to end in October with its work well done. But there has been inaugurated a series of hold-ups of pending measures which has brought condemnation and rebuke

Rep. Blanton Blocks Business

Blanton of Texas, for instance, has gained considerable notoriety through his determined opposition to the passage of much necessary legislation. He came here a few years ago resolved to "set Congress right" and make it conform to his own views. He did not make much of a success of it and lately has resorted to the somewhat doubtful tactics of forcing attention on himself. His pet practice is to threaten that if things don't go his way they shall not go at all. He then forces the attendance of a quorum at times when one is not necessary to transact the pending business. It is the custom to let debate go on, receive committee reports, and allow unimportant legislation to pass. Continued to Page 4—Second Section cerned, according to a survey of the situation made in the current issue of the Boston Review. We quote:

"Other than the fight for the democratic nomination for governor, the only state-wide campaigns of interest are the contests for the republican nomination for state treasurer and attorney general. There are six contestants for treasurer with Representative Fred P. Greenwood of Everett. Senator Charles L. Gifford and Representative Fred J. Burrell of Medford being recognized as the most formidable of the sextet. For the attorney general nomination James Mott Halliwell of Newton is regarded as the leader with Robert J. Bottomly as his strongest opponent.

"There are three councillor contests, two among the republicans and one on the democratic side. Councillors George B. Wason of Cambridge and James G. Harris of Medford have opponents in their respective districts. Senator John E. Beck of Chelsea is Councillor Wason's opponent, while former Representative Fred O. Lewis of Lowell is in the field against Councillor Harris. Councillor Lewis R. Sullivan of Dorchester has five opponents for the democratic nomination in the Boston district."

11th Rep. District

In the 11th representative district, Representatives Owen E. Brennan and Frank McMahon are seeking re-election and are opposed by Charles H. Slattery, who was drafted while a member during the war, and who claims a right to re-election; by Patrick A. Hayes, a young lawyer, Patrick F. Nestor and John V. Quennan. Each of these is working hard and has premises of substantial support.

The records of Messrs. Brennan and McMahon in the state house are offered to the voters by these candidates as guides during the present primaries contest.

In the 16th district Representative Thomas J. Corbett, a veteran of Boxton hill, is being opposed by Dennis J. Donohoe, one of the best known men of the district. Mr. Corbett is confident of being returned to the legislature, while Mr. Donohoe's friends feel that his wide acquaintance in wards 4 and 5 will give him great strength.

The county commissioner fight is as warm as ever, with Mr. Barlow being widely touted by his supporters as sure of re-election. Senator Colburn and Mr. Adams are still on the job, however.

Four Per Cent. Beer

Every Lowell voter will have an opportunity at the coming state election to indicate how they stand on the question of passing a state law favoring the sale of beverages containing a maximum of four per cent. alcohol, as the result of the successful circulation of petitions requiring the question to be submitted to practically all the voters of the state. The petitions passed muster in all the local representative districts with flying colors as there was a large number of extra signatures. If the voters in any local district show by their balloting that they favor the four per cent. beer legislation, the men who are chosen representatives from that district will have a moral though not legal obligation to vote as their constituents wish.

A Few Calendar Dates

Following are a few dates of interest between now and state election day, as compiled by the secretary of the commonwealth:

Sept. 23: State primaries. Last day for holding conventions of non-political parties for the nomination of candidates.
Sept. 25, 5 p. m.: Last day and hour for filing with the secretary of the commonwealth nomination papers of candidates for the state election and also for filing written acceptance by candidates to be voted for those names were not printed on the primary ballots.
Sept. 26: Earliest day for filing with the secretary of the commonwealth returns of expenses for nomination.

Sept. 29: Last day and hour for filing withdrawals of or objections to nominations of candidates.

Sept. 30: Earliest day for holding state conventions of political parties.

Oct. 2: Last day for filing vacancies caused by withdrawals.

Oct. 7: Last day for holding state conventions of political parties.

Nov. 4: State election.

Plan B M. A. I.

One hears all kinds of Plan B talk on the streets these days. The drift of sentiment seems to convey the impression that the new charter will be accepted on Nov. 4, but now and then one hears from people who are not so optimistic of the change of affairs.

Representative Thomas J. Corbett admits that Plan B has a large number of friends, but naturally, is still of the opinion that the amended form of Plan B, which is popularly known as the Corbett charter because of the part the representative had in formulating it, is the better form of government for Lowell. He points out that the charter which is now in vogue in Lynn and which is substantially the same as that which would see in force here overcomes two of the defects which many people have found in Plan B—the absence of the primaries and the fact that a minority vote can elect officials.

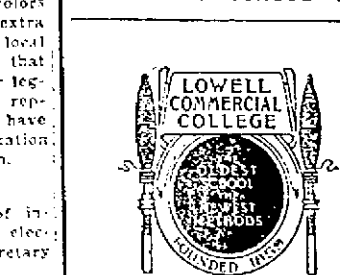

However, Plan B comes up for victory or defeat next November. If it is accepted, Lowell must "stay in it" for four years. If it is defeated Representative Corbett says that the charter which he advocates will probably be on the ballot the following year.

Section 13 of chapter 257, general acts of 1915, provides for this four-year tryout of Plan B in the following terms:

"Should any one of the plans of government provided for in this act be adopted, the plan shall continue in force for the period of at least four years after the beginning of the term of office of the officials elected thereunder; and no petition proposing a different plan shall be filed during the period of three years and six months after such adoption."

Another interesting phase of the new charter discussion heard about town is the effect Plan B would have on the two political parties. Prominent republicans point out that Plan B would bring a return of republican officials to city hall, not only the aldermen, but heads of the various departments as well. Under the old form of charter prior to 1912 the republicans had a majority of city hall offices under their control, but with the coming of the commission form of government and the theoretical abolition of party lines, it is pointed out that democrats have had control.

Quarter Century Ago

The old Sun has the following relative to a former local newspaperman who was well and favorably known 25 years ago:

"Perry Lynch, the Apollo of the Mail, is wearing a halo since yesterday when he swam down the Merrimack river from Tynes Island to Stevens' wharf, below the Vesper Boat club house. Some two weeks ago this daring young man swam from North Chelmsford to Lowell, but that didn't satisfy him and yesterday, donning his Atlantic City bathing suit, he dived into the water out of a boat at the island and began his long swim, while his pace maker, Dave Mahoney, kept ahead of him in Perry's cute little boat. In the face of a stiff breeze Perry swam on until he reached the Pawtucket falls.

"The trip was made in just 2 hours and 45 minutes, and at the finish Perry was just as fresh as ever. The distance is about four and a half miles."

Mr. Lynch left the Mail soon after making that swim record, and whether as a result of his departure or some other cause, the Mail began to flounder immediately after he left and so continued until it passed out of existence. He proved a fluent writer, with an easy, clear and facile style. From the Mail he went to the Boston Post, of which for many years he has been one of the editors. He visited Lowell a few weeks ago to dispose of some testament property purchased before he moved to Boston. He is married and drives a large touring car.

General Banks in Lowell

Our older residents and students of history need not be told that General Banks, who served with distinction in the Civil war, was for a time a resident of Lowell. Born in Waltham, the son of a cotton mill overseer, he worked there as a hobnob boy, came later to Lowell, where he filled the position of reporter on a newspaper. He also engaged in amateur theatricals and conducted rehearsals in the Southwick building, formerly occupied by the old Sun at the corner of Prescott and Central streets.

From the account of his death in the old Sun the following is taken:
"Waltham, Sept.—Gen. Nathaniel P. Banks died at 11 minutes after 1 this morning, passing from this life peacefully and without signs of suffering. At his bedside were Mrs. Banks, Miss Maude Banks and Miss Sybil Banks, his daughters.

"General Banks was one of the most striking figures of the Civil war and in public and private life he has been an important personage."

Grandmother Knew

Just what to do to keep her family rugged and well. She believed in nature's remedy, the life-giving juices of leaves, roots and herbs, which are united in SEVEN BARKS and which have been a standard and favorite remedy for indigestion, constipation, kidney, liver and stomach troubles for nearly 50 years.

You cannot be constipated and happy at the same time. If you have a bad taste in the mouth, foul breath, furried tongue, dull headaches, drowsiness, disturbed sleep, mental depression, yellowish skin, then you are constipated, and SEVEN BARKS will quickly relieve this disorder, which is the result of liver derangement, and severe digestive disturbances.

Be prepared for these emergencies: always keep SEVEN BARKS on hand, and take from 10 to 20 drops in a little water after meals, and it will quickly cause the bowels and liver to act normally.

If you want to get the greatest efficiency out of your body, you should take SEVEN BARKS, so that the stomach may do its best work, and not be handicapped by the burdens we foolishly sometimes put upon it. For sale by druggists. Price, 50 cents per bottle.

the army of the Potomac commanding the left of the line at the battle of Cedar creek, where Stonewall Jackson attacked him. The history of the Civil war is full of reference to General Banks and with General Butler his name was the most prominent since the war. General Banks went to congress and in the fierce congressional fight over free states was speaker of the house.

Miss Maude Banks was a popular actress for many years after her father's death and she always got a most cordial greeting on her appearance with traveling companies at the Opera House.
Says the old Sun:
"Miss Elizabeth D. Varnum of Malcom, Iowa, who is visiting her cousin, W. A. Lucas of 551 Bridge street, is the seventh generation descendant of Mrs. Hannah Dustin, the Haverhill woman taken in captivity by the Indians in 1704. Miss Varnum owns the original cloth cut by the Indians from Hannah Dustin's loom and which she afterwards used to convey ten scalps home after killing her Indian captives."

"Those who drive through Haverhill will notice the statue of Hannah Dustin in a triangular little patch at the junction of Main street and another thoroughfare."

The school children of that city are regaled with many stories of the exploits of this heroine who though captured by the Indians managed to kill her captors and return to her home.

Treating the Patrons

If the Eastern Massachusetts railway company wants to increase its patronage, it can do so perhaps by adopting the methods that proved so popular and so successful a quarter of a century ago under the management of the Lowell and Draught company.

What were those methods, you will ask? The following item from the old Sun tells the story:
"The season at Lakeview will be brought to a close in a novel manner one week from next Saturday. There will be a big barbeque and a 1200-pound ox will be roasted in full view of those present. Charles W. Allen, the accountant of Kentucky, will superintend the barbeque and when the ox is roasted it will be carved and served in the dining hall to all those who hold coupons. A coupon will be attached to every return trip ticket. Mr. Allen and his wife will arrive here Monday and make the preliminary arrangements."

If the railway in those days gave the patrons an occasional "feed" and distributed deadhead tickets by the thousand as a means of increasing their business, perhaps the failure of

Lady Lookabout

I was in hopes that I would have a vote to cast for this, for I am of voting age, plus, but I am as yet just a bit disappointed. Preferred hope has not made my heart sick, exactly. One thing it has made me think about is that the man who feels that he needs his vote must be able to reckon with the housekeeper as well as with the man who needs employment or whose street needs improving, or whose wages need a boost, and so on. Just now, had I a vote, and should it be sought by a political aspirant, for the mayor's office, let us say, I would say to him, "What are you going to do for the housekeeper who cannot get sugar for her family? What are you going to do for the farmer who cannot dispose of his fruit on account of no sugar?" For there is sugar, as much, if not more, than ever is being produced and marketed, as well. Not from Louisiana, but from my own knowledge, I know that hundreds of ships engaged in the merchant marine service have carried hundreds, and hundreds, and hundreds of tons of sugar from Cuba to this country during the past few months. Also I know, and not from hearsay, that during the past week one of the largest freighters afloat left New York for Italy with a cargo of thousands of tons of refined sugar. Yet hardly a grain can we get in Lowell for our tables. I have scanned closely the platforms of gubernatorial aspirants, and not one considers the needs of the commissary department of the home, namely the housekeeper.

No legitimate reason that I know of has yet been given for the present sugar shortage, and I cannot help feeling that a good reason is due the long-suffering housekeepers of Lowell. Women who cheerfully gave up actual necessities while the war was on in order that our soldiers on the battlefields might not be short, but who now feel they should know why food is being withheld from them and their families.

I am confident that if women could vote, very soon they would know why food is being withheld from those whose claim to it should be first.

P. S.—(Probably unnecessary)—the Lookabouts have not had any real sugar for nearly two weeks.)

Parking Baby Carriages

There is an excellent opportunity for local merchants to introduce in Lowell an innovation that would be most welcome to their customers. I refer to a parking space for baby carriages. Always the lack of such a place has been most manifest to shopping women, those without babies as well as those with. On Thursday morning, I visited a big department store. Hastening along through an aisle I was brought to a sudden stop by two baby carriages which entirely blocked traffic. The mothers of two soundly sleeping infants were swapping stories, and before the congestion was relieved I knew that Johnny was having a terrible time with his eye teeth, but that his trouble was nothing compared with what happened to ten-month-old Tommy when he crept amuck of an ear of corn the week before.

Of course it was only a bit of thoughtfulness on the part of those mothers to stop in that particular spot and have a chat. The pity of it is that they were compelled to take their baby carriages into the store at all. Yet what is the alternative? Leaving them on the sidewalk in front of the store or in the wagon-passage in the rear, both places equally dangerous. The mothers should not be blamed. Under the same circumstances any woman would have done as they did. Yet the inconvenience to other customers, also brought out in unusual numbers, should be considered. When merchants cater to the trade of mothers, also brought out in unusual numbers, babies along or themselves remain at home, then the merchants should offer some accommodations for parking carriages. You would have to experience the inconvenience to appreciate it.

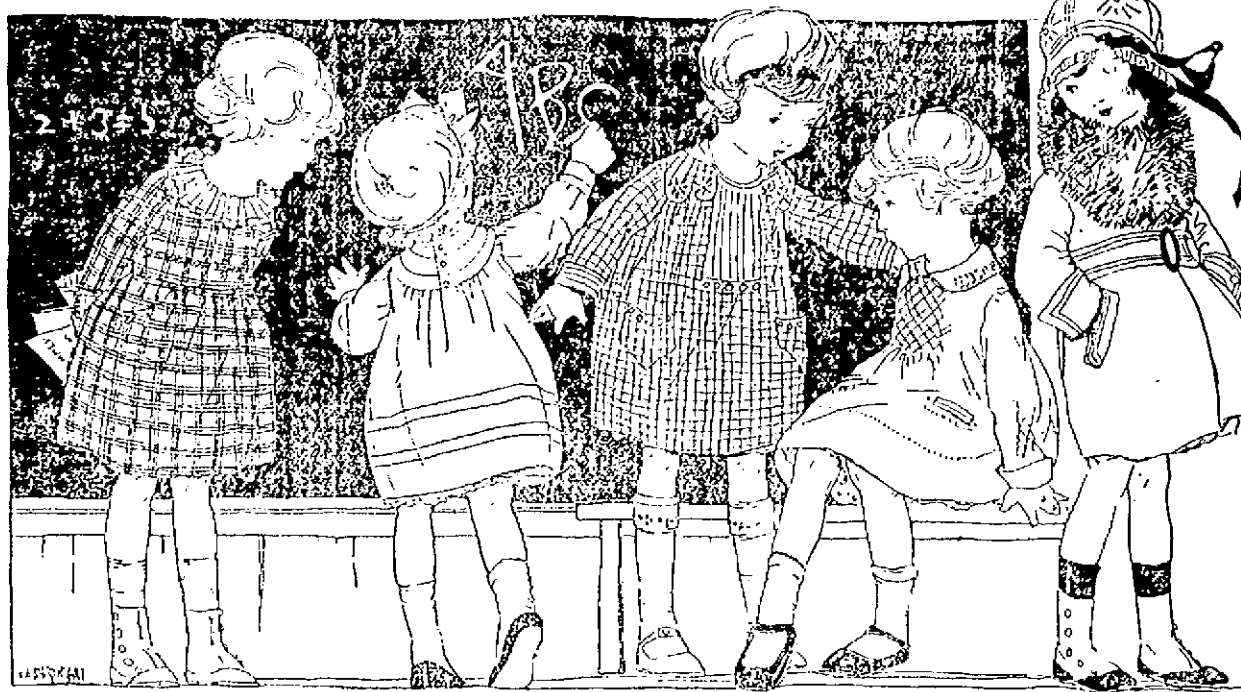

Winter Skirts Predicted

A leading authority on fashions for women, one whose name stands for the correct and the conservative in gowning, advises the modiste to study the prevailing silhouette, and she cannot go far wrong. To illustrate his point, he has prepared a page of silhouettes gleaned from fashions of the last five years. It shows us the development of the skirt beginning with a moderate flare of three yards, made five inches from the ground. A year later we find a four-yard flare, which seemed to over-embellish the desire for a flaring skirt. For a year later, 1917, the pendulum had started on its return trip and the correct skirt measured two and one-half yards at the hem. Then the craze for narrow skirts grew and in 1918 we find a skirt of one and one-half yards. The pendulum, how-

FASHIONS FOR KINDERGARTEN MISSES

BY BETTY BROWN

One's first day at school is robbed of all terrors if only one's mamma is careful to see that one begins the serious business of life properly groomed. So important an occasion when full-till in high favor today—a higher ture standing with "dear teacher" and dear little classmates may depend upon a well-groomed and self-assured appearance, should be regarded with proper gravity.

Of course there is the matter of conviction that one's frock will wear well and bear the frequent washings which insure freshness combined with economy and simplicity.

Mother remembers that in her early school days she was considered the school-frock table par excellence, and while home buttons neatly arranged, is therefore delighted to know it is. And of course there are pockets. The explorer of the art of letters next in line wears a quite ravishing little gown of yellow chambray, with a well-groomed and self-assured appearance, should be regarded with proper gravity.

Here are sketched several simple little frocks for the very newest school children—charming enough to meet every demand of good taste and plain enough to be within the power of any mother's purse. At the left, the well-informed young person passing on her information, is lightly hand-embroidered in pink cotton roses, and adorned with a vest and collar of tucked organdie. Naturally, there are more pockets.

Pale green muslin is the foundation of the smocker, frock of the pensile and diminutive lady seated on the school bench. It is embroidered in white and blue.

Miss Late Comer has not yet been checked into taking off her wraps and no wonder, when they are so adorable. The coat is soft brown Bolivia cloth with a furry collar of racoon, and a brown velvet embroidered bonnet to match.

Mrs. Zella Belding, one of the squabs which she raises on her Washington farm, once a rookery for hawks. Mrs. Belding prepares ten dozen squabs for market every week, at $7.50 a dozen. She insists that pigeons have "personalities."

THE WOMAN WORKER IN A NEW FIELD

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 13.—The story of Mrs. Zella M. Belding's rise to fame and fortune is best told in "pigeon" English.

With total assets of five cents in money, one sack of flour and 12 pet pigeons, Mrs. Belding went into business at Fall City, Wash., five years ago.

Today she is making $300 a month out of her squab farm, in which there are now approximately 500 maturing birds. Within another year she expects to have five times that number of birds, whose succulent progeny, deemed to early demise, will yield her about $150 a week.

Stern necessity compelled Mrs. Belding to go into the squab business. Widowed in 1904, she was left with a comfortable sum of money, which wise investments subsequently reduced to nothingness.

In 1914 she moved from California to Fall City with her pet pigeons, to visit a married sister. Eventually she secured an option on a battered old farm building at the edge of the little town, 16 miles from Seattle, and removed there, taking her pets, her nickel and her sack of flour along.

"It was tough and so for a while," says the pigeon queen, "but I hung on for dear life, knowing that the plan was my only hope of independence. You never know what you can do until you are put squarely up against it."

The old farm house, which had been a rookery for years for many years, was little more than a shell. It was repainted and furnished as fast as I could selling squabs only when I actually had to, and endeavoring to get a possible flock in the shortest possible time.

"I sacrificed everything to making my squab farm a success."

After two years of preparation, Mrs. Belding finally took to the squabs with a Seattle hotel lady, and her squabs at $7.50 a dozen, she was left with a comfortable sum of money, which wise investments subsequently reduced to nothingness.

Mrs. Belding says that her business is the most "personal" in the world. Pigeons, she declares, have personal-ties all their own, and keep life from becoming prosaic. They are great gossipers, too, and the mother birds are forever "bawling over the back fence" and exchanging confidences while the "daddies" sit on the nests and help to hatch the increases in the family!

The squab queen has many stories to tell of her big pigeon colony and the little tragedies and farces which are played there daily. She says she has no need of going to the theatre; her pigeons depict life for her in all of its dramatic phases.

"They love, hate, grieve, rejoice, grow jealous and do many other emotional things," declares Mrs. Belding. "But the most wonderful thing they do is to provide me with a snug income."

Mrs. Belding's average sales, today, are ten dozen squabs a week. Food for the birds costs about $72 a month, leaving her owner a net income of $250 every 30 days.

USE THESE LOW COST DISHES TO BEAT HIGH COST OF LIVING

BY BIDDY BYE

No housewife has performed her full duty in these high cost of living days until she has tested and experimented with all the low-cost foods in the dietary—and with the cheapest ways of cooking them.

And this study of low cost foods is not to be accepted as a permanent acquiescence in the high cost of living. By no means. Every family is entitled to the best food the markets afford—at reasonable prices—and the slow moving wheels of popular opinion and just government will bring that condition to pass.

But while we wait, it is a part of the "all-out strike" of protest on the part of all housewives that we shall refuse to buy high-cost foods.

In order to do that, each cook must make a serious study of serving low-cost foods in a tempting manner. We will not buy meat—but we must contrive substitutes to nourish our families.

There are such substitutes. Here are three dishes:

BAKED BEAN LOAF WITH TOMATO SAUCE.

1 cupful baked beans.
1 cupful bread crumbs.
Tomato Sauce made as follows:
1/2 can tomatoes.
2 tablespoonsful fat.
2 tablespoonsful flour.
Salt and pepper.

To make the loaf, mash the cold baked beans, season with salt and pepper and chopped onion. Add the bread crumbs moistened with a little skim milk. Form in a loaf, put in greased bread pan and bake until browned with salt and pepper. Stir until smooth, then add tomato, mashed and strained, remainder of sauce.

To make the sauce, melt the fat in a pan, and cook the onion in it until golden brown. Stir in flour mixed with salt and pepper. Stir until smooth, then add tomato, mashed and strained, remainder of sauce.

SCALLOPED ONIONS.

6 onions.
1/2 cupful breadcrumbs.
1/2 cupful butter or oleo.
1/2 cupful white sauce.
Peel and boil onions until tender, drain, add white sauce. Place in a greased baking dish and cover with buttered breadcrumbs. Grate a little cheese over the top and sprinkle with paprika. Bake in oven until brown.

VEGETABLE HASH.

3 cupfuls cooked Lima beans.
1/2 cupful cooked potatoes.
1/2 cupful milk.
1/2 cupfuls cooked beets.
4 tablespoonsful butter or oleo.
Salt and pepper.

Cut the cooked vegetables in dice, season with salt and pepper and add chopped onions and green pepper or minced parsley if desired. Moisten with the milk. Melt butter in frying pan and put in hash, spread evenly. Over the vegetables put dots of butter or other fat. Cover pan and set over moderate heat for 1-2 hour. Fold and turn on hot platter. Hash should have rich brown crust. Good served with tomato or parsley sauce.

BUSTLES! AND GO AND BEHOLD BODICES!

BY BETTY BROWN

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—It looks like an exciting social season! Bustles are back! And backs are bustled!

And they do say—that the decoilette evening gown is more so than ever!

The evening gowns just exhibited in the New York fashion show are positively breath-taking in their sumptuousness and their daring, and almost all of them display some new and startling feature.

The ladies of the ballroom bid fair to rival the ladies of the stage in gorgeous and—ah!—remarkable gowns!

This gown which was exhibited at the fall fashion show is of black chiffon velvet draped confusingly over a neticote of silver lace. The corsage is extended into a hip yoke which, in turn, forms a point in the back and incidentally makes an excuse for a bustle drape.

Back, which never loses its vogue, will resume its old-time place distinction among dinner gowns and late will figure extensively with it and in a variety of new ways. Especially will late appear in foundation skirts and bodices and in voluminous over-drapes. These latter will very often be caught up with loops and streamers of ribbon or fastened with flower, shepherdess fashion.

That metal cloths will be much used for evening wear is clear. There are a host of new cloths, too, of this class beautifully patterned and in insulating colors, and, also, sufficiently pliable to drape gracefully, which some of the earlier ones were not.

In the way of colors for evening frocks, red is the most interesting because it has lost its garishness and aggressiveness that once relegated it to the plan of the ordinary. Begonia, Phlox, which is a wine shade, and the whole range of vivid reds are on the lists.

BE DAINTY AT SMALL EXPENSE

BY BETTY BROWN

A few tips on the proper daily care of clothes will add much to the average woman's ability to preserve her reputation for daintiness. It will also save pennies for her purse.

Two hours a week spent on the care of the wardrobe will lengthen its life many weeks, and give the owner the happy consciousness of always being well dressed—and ready for any emergency.

Press skirts once or twice each week.

Always press on the wrong side, playing a damp cloth over material and pressing until the cloth is dry. To keep the seams from looking shiny turn the skirt on the right side, cover the seams with a damp cloth, and press very lightly.

To remove the shiny look from cloth skirt, sponge it with vinegar and water, using 1 tablespoonful of vinegar to 1 glass of water. Sponge on right side and press on wrong.

For business wear, both winter and summer, crepe-de-chine is a most satisfactory material. It should be very simply made, with no trimming but tucks or bands of the same material, or silk braid and buttons. It washes as easily as muslin, takes dye well and does not crease or wear shiny like wool materials. It is especially suited to steam heated offices where wool gowns are uncomfortable.

Always have plenty of fresh, simple collar and cuff sets, at least two for each gown. Those made of broadcloth are durable, may be easily washed, and made attractive with a touch of wool embroidery.

Other sets of pique, linen, organdie, and one handsome lace should be kept for any occasion.

Back, which never loses its vogue, will resume its old-time place distinction among dinner gowns and late will figure extensively with it and in a variety of new ways. Especially will late appear in foundation skirts and bodices and in voluminous over-drapes. These latter will very often be caught up with loops and streamers of ribbon or fastened with flower, shepherdess fashion.

LOWELL THE HOME OF INDUSTRY

At the present cost of living it is hard enough to pay one's own bills without being obliged to support the fellow who doesn't pay.

Most milk dealers sell on credit, collecting weekly or monthly. Some customers pay promptly, some are slow and owe old balances, and some never pay. Those who pay promptly help support the rest. Buy your milk from the Turner Centre Creamery and you will not only get the best milk but you will save one-half cent per quart which is what the ordinary dealer loses in bad bills. We retail only on the ticket system.

IN THE "PORT OF MISSING FRIENDS"

Nothing so well illustrates the magnitude of that floating city of steel which is the new Pacific fleet of the United States navy as the fact that it's mighty easy for a "gob" to lose his best buddy among its tunnels and gun-bristling lanes. And that is why Mrs. Emma J. Wolf established the "Port of Missing Friends" for sailors during the fleet's stay at San Francisco. Here they came to register and to scan "Mother" Wolf's log of missing pals—as the two "gobs" in the picture are doing. She has effected hundreds of reunions.

FOR PERSHING

Resolution Has Right of Way
in House—General 59
Years Old Today

To Re-establish Headquarters of A.E.F. at Washington—
Leads Parade Wednesday

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—General Pershing today re-established headquarters of the American Expeditionary Forces at the war department. Here he and his staff will wind up the affairs of the overseas forces.

A resolution proposing the gift of a sword to the general, had the right of way in the house today. The resolution, which tenders the thanks of the American people and the American congress to General Pershing and the men of the American Expeditionary Force, would appropriate $10,000 for purchase of the sword.

On Wednesday, General Pershing will lead the First Division in parade here. Airplanes and an observation balloon will maneuver over the line of march.

This was General Pershing's 50th birthday. He was born Sept. 13, 1860, when the war clouds of the struggle between the states were about to break and when the first calls for volunteers would soon be heard in the Missouri town where he was born. He will dine tonight with his father-in-law, Senator Warren of Wyoming.

ESKIMO GIRL GREETS THE VICE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON.—Miss Mable Miller, whose name when home with her Eskimo kinsfolk is Klevick Kuzuek, has met Vice President Marshall—Mr. Wilson wasn't home. She gave the V. P. a gavel made of a walrus tooth, with which he now thumps the senate to order. Mabel is the guest of Mrs. Thomas P. Gore, wife of the Oklahoma senator, at the left of Vice President Marshall in the photograph. The Eskimo girl is attending school at Danville, Ind.

MISS EUGENE RACICOT BACK FROM FRANCE

After many months of splendid service in France as a telephone operator, Miss Eugene Racicot of this city has returned to her home, 842 Moody street, glad in the knowledge that the war is passed, but grateful for the opportunity to serve her country in a most important phase of army work. Gladly would she endure again the superficial hardships incident to her work if the need arose.

Miss Racicot first enlisted in the telephone branch of the signal corps and went to Europe with the third unit, organized by Miss Nellie F. Snow, chief operator of the Lowell exchange. In France she went first to Langless, at that time the headquarters of the advance S.O.S. Then she was transferred to the headquarters of the First Army at Souilly. During the time of the peace conference she worked at the toll exchange for the district of Paris at La Belle Epine, until a month ago when she went to Brest and from there sailed for New York and home.

Although at Souilly she worked within sound of the guns at no time was her exchange under fire. The girls were obliged to live in army barracks at Souilly, messed with the officers and lived the regular life of a line soldier. But she classes this slight inconvenience as an experience and a part of a never-to-be-forgotten service.

MILK SOLD BY TICKET SYSTEM

This will appeal to the thrifty housekeeper. The Turner Centre Creamery Co. with offices at 5 Thorndike street, has inaugurated a system by which the best quality of milk is being distributed to its many customers at a half cent cheaper a quart than this precious liquid is being sold by other dealers of this city. This is what is known as the ticket system. Tickets for pure milk are being sold as follows: Ten quart tickets, $1.55, and 10-pint tickets, 88 cents. The management of the company explains that milk can be sold at these prices because ready cash eliminates the loss incurred by the selling of milk on the old weekly payment system. This is Evelyn Davis Marino, whose "Inward guide" compelled her to turn away from the gypsies, though she had been kidnapped in babyhood and knew nothing of her true parentage. She is engaged to marry a Montana mining man, and is seeking a divorce from her 12-year-old husband, a gypsy prince.

BACK FROM GYPSY TRAIL

"Call of Blood" Wins Kidnapped Girl — Princess Finds Old Home

HELENA, Mont., Sept. 13.—Evelyn Davis Marino, aged 21, trained from babyhood as a gypsy and ignorant of all except the dark life of caravan and campfire, rags and mysticism, cruelty and quarrels—today is a gypsy no more.

And neither Evelyn herself—pretty, brilliant, with brain starving for knowledge and soul thirsty for beauty and refinement—nor yet the learned folk who are marveling at the girl's quickness in learning, can explain why this is so.

Something awoke in Evelyn's heart, something called, and she obeyed. That is all anyone can tell.

Evelyn thought herself a gypsy by birth. For 15 years she lived with the wanderers of Roumania; spoke their jargon, copied their customs, learned to lie, steal, tell fortunes and cheat the conventional stay-at-homes, the gypsies' proper prey.

Nobody told her that she was an American girl of good family. Nobody hinted that the gypsies had kidnapped her from a convent in Butte, Mont., when she was a three-year-old baby. She had no conscious memory of the gentle sisters and soft voiced priests of her infant sleep.

She was married to a gypsy boy of royal blood, a lad of 12. By that marriage she would some day become a gypsy queen.

Yet the morning dawned when she awoke and dreamed to herself: "I am not a gypsy."

Forthwith she left the life of Vagabondia and turned to the ways of her ancestors. Some say it was the "call of blood." Others ascribe it to the training of those first three years. The old dispute between inheritance and environment is revived in Evelyn's case.

She ran away from the gypsies. Clad in her gaudy rags and trinkets, with sun browned skin and dark locks to complete the makeup, she appeared in the office of Miss Theresa Rich, probation officer of Oakland, Cal., and said:

"I do not want to be a gypsy any more. I want to find a good home and be educated. I want to be divorced from my gypsy boy husband and begin life again."

Miss Rich investigated, and learned Evelyn's story for a gypsy who admitted the truth. The convent records were found. Like the "Bohemian Girl" in the fine old opera, Evelyn had returned to her former ways.

Now she is with friends in Helena. For six months she has been studying night and day, mastering the grammar school curriculum in amazingly short time, going on through high school courses and even tackling the harder branches taught in universities.

For Evelyn has a splendid mind. The sharpening of her wits in 15 years of gypsy life has not hurt that brain power at all.

"She could neither read nor write," says Miss Rich, "yet she passed our intelligence tests with amazing ease."

"Once she learned to read—which she did with amazing rapidity—she became absorbed in history, science, fairy tales, novels—anything and everything in print. Her favorite book which she read again and again in those early days was 'Little Women.'"

"Mark my words, Evelyn is going to be heard from. She is entirely too remarkable to fall of doing something big."

There is only one setback—an uncanny "hypnotic" influence said to have been exercised by a gypsy woman, Marie Gych, her "godmother." In 1915, when Evelyn made her first break for liberty, Marie Gych compelled her to return to the tribe.

But now hypnotism can do no more. For Evelyn is in love.

She is engaged to marry a Montana mining man of considerable wealth. Her suit for divorce from the Marino boy—the 12-year-old "prince"—is pending in the courts.

The "Bohemian Girl" may soon find that her dream of "dwelling in marble halls" has come true.

Rep. Blanton of Texas

ear bills to be passed without a quorum, so not to disturb the committees which may be at work during sessions, on matters which require long hearings. But Blanton has popped up dozens of times a day and in a shrill, high voice demanded a quorum on such occasions. The rules of the house permit a call on the motion of one member so there was no way to head off the Texan. Each roll call consumes 45 minutes and it is estimated that Blanton has demanded so many needless calls that the equal of no less than 70 full legislative days has been wasted. In that way, Democrats and Republicans have alike scathingly rebuked him on the floor of the house, but to no avail. He carried his hold-up methods to such an extent that one day he blocked the passage of 53 bills which had received favorable reports from the committees which had considered them. One bill was to permit the removal of the body of a little child from its temporary burial place in Washington to the home of its parents—but Blanton objected. Another was to pay the $500 which had been awarded the widowed mother of a dead soldier boy who died in performance of his duty—but again Blanton objected. Another day he objected to the chaplain offering the customary opening prayer of the session, until a quorum was present. This necessitated a delay of 45 minutes before the urgent business of the house could be taken up. In the meantime the blind chaplain was forced to step down from the rostrum with the unuttered prayer on his lips and wait three-quarters of an hour until Blanton's demand for a roll call had been complied with. These are examples of the reform on which Blanton of Texas is resting his claim for fame.

Important Committee Work Held Up

It may be well to add that the great committees of ways and means, interstate commerce, agriculture, military and naval affairs, and others to the number of 12, and composed of a total of 154 members, are working during the hours of daily session of the house by the explicit direction of a vote of the house. So the men whom Blanton accuses of absenteeism and on whom he pours out his wrath, are absent from their seats attending to committee work of the greatest importance. In fact these 12 committees have before them pretty much all the pressing legislation of reconstruction. The interstate commerce is striving to find a means to settle the railroad question—agriculture to reduce the cost of living; the naval and military affairs to establish a policy for the army and navy. The appropriation committee to decide on the financial needs of the nation, the postoffice committee to provide proper compensation for postal employees and the ways and means to decide how the many billions necessary to run the government can best be raised. Yet these 12 great committees have been interrupted, pestered and their sessions broken into scores and scores of times this session by such needless calls for attendance in the house. So if there is delay in securing the passage of bills tending towards reducing the cost of living and settling the tremendous problems of labor and foreign policies, the blame does not rest entirely on congress as a whole, but a goodly part of it may safely be laid on the shoulders of the little gentleman from Texas, who though young in both years and experience, has started out to reform the world.

"I hear your house was broken into last week, Tilson, did you lose much?" asked one of his colleagues of the congressman from the third Connecticut district. "Well, said the colonel, if you had asked the thief that question he would probably have answered 'no, I didn't get anything. It was the house of a congressman. 'Pon my word, when I found the house topsy-turvy and that the thief had emptied about every drawer, trunk and closet and found nothing worth taking except a pair of shoes and a few handkerchiefs. I was more than ever convinced that the high cost of living had made it impossible to rate a congressman as being in the rich man's class. Had I met the fellow I should have been tempted to tell him that if he found anything worth having I was ready to divide." Col. Tilson regrets the loss of that brand new pair of "Johnny Fischer's boots," more than anything else.

"I had just had them made for next winter, and never taken them out of the box," mourned Tilson, looking down at the well worn pair he had on. "And in these days to lose a pair of boots is some loss."

Sweet Elder Survives

By the grace of the senate sweet elder will continue to hold its place on the Thanksgiving dinner tables of New England. The senate has amended the prohibition enforcement law to the extent of permitting sweet elder to be classed as a non-intoxicating beverage.

WAITING

TO REORGANIZE NATIONAL GUARD

Generals Sweetser, Sherburne and Cole in Charge of the Recruiting

Force of 14,000 Trained Men, Mostly Y. D. Vets Will Be Ready in Few Days

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—Brigadier-General E. Leroy Sweetser, following a meeting of the higher officers of the Massachusetts National Guard units, who now form the skeleton of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, predicted that by next Monday night his organization will have recruited practically to full strength of 14,000 men with probably 95 per cent of them overseas veterans.

The recruiting began following a meeting of these officers, when a vote to take immediate action was passed, and this was approved by Governor Coolidge as commander-in-chief. The organization is a provisional force and is formed under the authority of Section 14, Chapter 327, General Acts of 1917, and Chapter 135, General Acts of 1919.

The original purpose of effecting the organization was to perpetuate the names and standing of the militia organizations which became the National Guard, and later entered the federal service, thus forming the larger part of the Yankee Division. Immediately following the passage of the Act of 1919, the governor appointed numerous officers to the organization, but no attempt was made to immediately bring in the non-commissioned officers and privates.

In establishing the Volunteer Militia, Governor Coolidge, in General Order No. 10, said: "In accordance with, and by virtue of the authority vested in me by Chapter 135, General Acts of 1919, I direct that the persons hereinafter named be appointed provisional officers in the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, and that they shall be assigned to the units hereinafter designated."

senior officer of those in the organization, will take active charge of the recruiting, and will have the assistance of Generals Cole and Sherburne, although the former is quite busily engaged at the present time as adviser to Commissioner Curran and the latter as chairman of the commission on the necessities of life.

It is the aim to re-establish the militia on as nearly the same lines as it existed in 1917. As far as possible the former members, mainly those who served in France, will be given the preference, but in case of any vacancies others will be taken in.

The organizations will probably be designated in the militia as the Second, Fifth, Eighth and Ninth Regiments with their National Guard designation also applied. They will be offered as far as possible by the men who had charge of them before the war and will be housed in the same armories.

General Sweetser said that although it will be impossible to secure full equipment for the men as early as Monday, steps are being taken which promise their being supplied within a short time. He added, however, that nearly every man who served in the war now has his equipment which the federal government permitted him to retain, so that these may be used for a time.

Lowell Men Organize In order to create some sort of a temporary organization of militia in the state during the absence of the State Guard from the different cities and towns, all former members of Companies C, G and K of the Old Sixth Regiment, M.V.M., have been asked to report at the state armory in Westford street today or tomorrow and leave their names with Maj. Colby T. Kittredge.

SANTY KEPT PROMISE TO LITTLE GIRL

A little tot dreamed that Santa Claus promised her that he would keep a doll hospital in her city all the year round, where she would be able to take her doll any time it did not feel well or look just right and have it returned as good as new in a very short time. The dream has been realized, and Santa Claus has kept his promise, for at 226 Merrimack street, in the old City Hall building, is located the Roberts Doll hospital, where all the little "folks" suffering from broken limbs, cracked heads, etc., can be made to look like new. Mr. Roberts, who is at the head of the place, for the past four years has looked after the welfare of the toys and dolls at the R. H. White store in Boston and the J. L. Chaffee company, and Nelson's stores of Lowell and is now in a position to look after all the dolls of Lowell and he respectfully solicits the visit of doll owners.

News of the Screen Artists

Corinne Griffith has begun work on a new Vitagraph feature, entitled "The Tame Wife." This is said to be one of the best roles in which this talented star has yet appeared. She recently finished "The Climbers," adapted from Clyde Fitch's story.

Lowell theatregoers will have an opportunity to see the inside of an honest-to-goodness harem when May Allison's picture, "Fanny and Warren," comes to town this fall.

Gladys Leslie has begun work on "Fate in the Balance," from the novellette by Seward W. Hopkins. John W. Noble is directing.

"Counterfeit," Elsie Ferguson's latest, is now under construction at the New York studios of the Famous Players-Lasky Corp. The picture is a one-day drama, including among its cast many notable of the "talkies" stage.

Harry Carey is enjoying a brief vacation on his ranch in Southern California, while his director is seeking a new outdoor melodrama.

Clara Kimball Young gave up her stateroom on the San Francisco-Los Angeles train recently so that she could play some scenes on a ordinary day coach, and not being used to carrying autocracy the coach immediately jumped the track. So Clara had the tedious stop-at-all stations ride for nothing any time, except experience thrown in for good measure.

Production of the screen version of "Mary's Ankle," which has been adapted from the stage comedy of the same name, has been started, with Douglas McLean and Doris May in the leading roles.

The next feature in which Dorothy Dalton is to be starred is entitled "Black Is White," a screen version of the popular novel by George Barr McCutcheon. Charles Giblin will direct.

Wilfred Lucas recently had an experience in which he says he felt as if he were an elevator man whose elevator had gone crazy. He was called upon to make an ascension in a captive balloon of the old-fashioned spherical type. The atmospheric conditions that day were such that the balloon rapidly rose and fell in many seconds every time Lucas attempted to regulate it by throwing out sandbags. He declares now that it is very poor policy to eat a heavy meal before undertaking a similar experience.

Jane Eyre's latest picture, "His Father's Wife," which is scheduled for a local appearance in the next few weeks, is sure to please. Miss Eyre wears the most charming gowns she has donned all season in this picture. It is said.

Maybe prohibition is to blame, maybe not, but the local managers of the picture houses declare that the attendance figures for the past week have jumped beyond even their most sanguine expectations. Possibly it's because the managers themselves have been giving the city such a high class and up-to-date program.

DOREE'S CELEBRITIES AT B. F.

KIDNEY'S THEATRE NEXT WEEK

—GOOD SUNDAY PROGRAM—

As a prelude to the big bill at the B. F. Keith Theatre, next week, there will be presented an uncommonly good Sunday program, with the inimitable Charlie Chaplin and Anna Chance presenting their funny little skit called "Jed's Vacation." Others on this bill will be Val and Ernie Stanton; Sylvester and Vance; Walsh & Edwards; Elvina, Mabel Rhodes and Kim & Jim, the latter two acts brought on specially for the day.

Time, Doree's Celebrities, a collection of singers who will represent famous persons of the operatic stage. In several of their most noted roles, will headline next week's bill. Of course it would be quite impossible to put on to any one bill all of the best singers, but since Doree has brought together singers whose voices resemble in quality and register those of more noted persons, and the physical characteristics of her singers are similar to those of the ones they represent. One is assured of splendid singing, besides seeing near-replicas of Caruso, Scotti, Amato, Homer, Melba, Plancon, McCormack, Petrazzini and Farrar.

A busy man's most valuable acquisition is his secretary, and in "Editor of the Assassinated Press," George Yeomans shows just how his assistant in a newspaper office can be dictated to—the only place where she can—and how many things a woman can do in such a place when news of all kinds is buzzing over the wires. "The Act's a Scram," and Lizzie, the aforementioned assistant, does some of the funniest things imaginable.

You remember the man who made "Hill Holler" one of the biggest hits of "Way Down East"? He was Eddie Heron, and he will be seen on this big bill in "The Traveling Salesman." Heron is still a man with a mighty fine sense of humor, and his sketch is fitted out with all of the situations necessary to bring him to the front.

He is assisted by a most capable company. Heron has played with such splendid actors as Claude Gillingwater, Otis Skinner, Arnold Daly and DeWolf Hopper.

Joe Miller and Alice Bradford will present "All for a Song," and inasmuch as they are the possessors of splendid voices their sketch should make a very decided hit. There are no more capable or attractive exponents of wire work than the Jordan Girls. These two comely young women do many difficult feats and they are accomplished with ease and grace. Marguerite Padula is a singer of modern songs, who has much vim to her work. She cannot fail to make a wonderful impression here.

Frank and Ethel Carman are novelty hoop rollers and baton experts and their work merits the very highest of praise. In addition to these seven big vaudeville acts there will be shown the B. F. Keith Weekly News, Topics of the Day and a Bruce scenic.

Half the cultivated land of Egypt is owned by 20,000 persons with an average of 130 acres each, the other half by 1,400,000 persons owning two acres each.

THE LOWELL PLAYERS ARE MAKING BIG HIT AT THE OPERA HOUSE

"The best stock company Lowell ever had."

This seems to be the consensus of opinion of theatregoers of Lowell and vicinity after seeing the Lowell Players, successors to the Emerson Players, at the Opera House, in their first two presentations, "The Country Cousin," and "What's Your Husband Doing?" Judging from the capacity business done during both weeks, and the enthusiastic receptions accorded the players at all performances, one would naturally draw such a conclusion. And in truth the company is, unquestionably, of the highest grade. Their clever handling of their two first plays reflect that fact very forcibly. The cast seems wonderfully well balanced throughout, without a weak spot in the entire line, and give every indication of "wearing well."

Miss Margaret Field has been given greater opportunity than John Meehan to demonstrate her versatility and general dramatic skill, and she has already made many ardent admirers. Mr. Meehan, although appearing in most acceptable roles, is still to be seen at his best. He is anxiously waiting the time when he will be called on to portray some character in which high dramatic and emotional power is called into play. We all feel certain that he will score one of his big hits then.

Next week's attraction, selected by the management, is to be the Cohan & Harris triumph of recent times, "The Little Teacher," a four-act, creation of romance of New Hampshire hills, with a pleasing heart-interest attached to it and an interesting of wholesome humor and pathos to make it highly enjoyable. The piece is by Harry J. Smith, author of "The Tailor-Made Man," and is said to be the greatest play of his kind since "The Music Master." Miss Field has a delightful role, and Mr. Meehan will appear as a big, good-natured, whole-souled lumberman. Miss Fregeburn, Miss Knowles and the other female members of the company, will be seen to advantage, and Hal Crane, the juvenile man and the rest will be pleasingly assigned. Don't forget that the first performance on Monday afternoon is given with the same smoothness and finish as a week-end presentation. Order your tickets in advance and avoid disappointment. Better still, have your name placed on the subscription list. Tel. 261.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG IN "THE BETTER WIFE" AT MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Carlisle Blackwell, a favorite of Lowell motion picture devotees, will be seen in the sacred Sunday concert at the Merrimack Square theatre tomorrow afternoon and evening in one of his newest productions, "Life or Miss Co-starring with him on tomorrow's bill will be Mary Pickford in "Johanna Enlists."

For the first half of the week the feature attraction will be Clara Kimball Young in her latest dramatic success, "The Better Wife." This is a big production played up in a big way and Miss Young is ably supported by her own star company. The story has to do with an American girl's romance in England.

"The Better Wife" is described as an interesting and delightfully woven romance, introducing Miss Young as an American girl who is visiting friends in England. While she is there, she becomes acquainted with Sir Richard Beverly, Lady Beverly, and their son, Little Dick. Lady Beverly is having an affair with another man, and one afternoon, when she is racing in her car to keep an appointment with him, the car overturns and she is killed. Little Dick, who was riding in the car with his mother, is seriously injured, and Captain Page (played by Miss Young) takes an interest in him and tries to nurse him back to health.

It is discovered, however, that an intricate surgical operation is necessary in order to effect a cure. Sir Richard is found to be in straitened circumstances and cannot afford the services of a specialist, but Charmian has her father undertake the matter without the baronet's knowledge. Other circumstances tend to throw Charmian constantly in Sir Richard's path, but the sacred memory of his dead wife keeps him from speaking of his love. Later he is acquainted with the double life of the Lady Beverly, and he is brought to the point where a single decision will change his life from one of unhappiness to one of happiness and love.

The second feature for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be Constance Talmadge in "Experimental Marriage," a motion picture based on the play "From Saturday to Monday," by William J. Hurlbut. Constance Talmadge has had more genuine successes than any other screen star in the world. "A Pair of Silk Stockings," "Mrs. Lettingwell's Boots," and "The Cares" are a few of the many triumphs which have been chalked up against her name and in this latest production she scores an even greater success.

A brand new comedy, an international News feature and several other productions will complete the program for the first half of the week.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday's features will include Alice Brady in "His Bridal Night" and Bryant Washburn in "Love Insurance."

The famous "Who's Who" contest has come to an end and during the coming week the front views of the persons whose rear features were thrown on the screen this week will be shown and the prize winners announced.

Amsterdam, Holland, has just elected five women to membership in the municipal council.

MAURESETTE OF "THE POLMES"—"THE PERFECT CHORUS BEAUTY"

IF YOU WANT A JOB AS CHORUS GIRL—YOU MUST MATCH THIS STANDARD

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Broadway is 500 short on chorus girls. Never before was there such a scarcity.

"What are the requirements for a good chorus girl? Well, I'd say good looks come first as a primary essential, but she must have brains too," says Florenz Ziegfeld. "In height she should be in the neighborhood of 5 feet, six inches. She mustn't weigh less than 120 pounds or more than 135 pounds—

WEB WORM HERE AGAIN

The web worm, an insect that can do much damage to trees if allowed any leniency, has made its appearance in this city for the second time, according to Supl. John G. Gordon of the moth department, and he urges the immediate extermination of the webs of the worms. They made their first appearance in this city last year. The webs appear principally on willow, butternut and fruit trees and are large enough to be easily visible. Mr. Gordon says they should be burned when found.

BLOW TO GOVERNMENT

Henderson's Victory May Force Another General Election in Great Britain

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 12.—The result of the by-election in Wigan, Lancashire in which Arthur Henderson, the labor leader was elected to the house of commons is considered a severe blow to the coalition government and has revived speculation as to the imminence of another general election.

The virtually unanimous vote of the trades union congress at Glasgow for the nationalization of mines and today's vote on the subject of withdrawing British troops from Russia are regarded as evidence of a very determined attitude on the part of labor against the government. It is pointed out that there are suspicions as to the government's intentions concerning Russia and conscription, and that the Glasgow congress declined clearly to condemn the policy of direct action, but only strategically side tracked the decision.

Reconstruction of the cabinet is long overdue, and has been delayed only because ministerial changes would involve by-elections which, it is said, would almost certainly provide additional evidence that the tide of feeling in the country is running strongly against the government. Added to the difficulties in the field of labor is the Irish question, which seems impossible for the coalition government to solve satisfactorily. On all sides the consensus of opinion inclines to the view that another appeal to the country cannot be long delayed.

It is understood that as soon as Premier Lloyd George returns from France, he intends to summon the cabinet to discuss the whole situation.

Henderson said his victory was "an emphatic condemnation of the coalition government's policy and of the cynical political compromise upon which the government rests."

NEPHEW OF KING OF SIAM HAS BOSTON ACCENT

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The nephew of the king of Siam, Prince Arthi Arin, who has arrived in England to continue his studies, is attracting much attention from the newspapers because he speaks with an American accent. He was in a Boston school two years and acquired the manner of the Bostonians.

If a drop of water could be magnified to the size of the earth, each of its molecules would appear no larger than a baseball.

PICK RIVAL FOR PICKFORD HONORS

Margaret Falconer is not a blonde of the Pickford type, but she has a charm and beauty all her own that's winning her success.

Virginia Lee is one of the youngest of the film favorites who are considered in the race for queen of the movie world.

Ethel May Chadbourne has eyes that can play all sorts of tricks before the camera and oval-face artists most admire.

The vivacity and charm of Anita Booth make her one of the most popular of the rivals for Mary Pickford's place.

Expressive eyes, fine teeth and a provoking little mouth make Anetha Getwell a host of admirers among the film fans.

Vera Hulme has that piquant French air and expressive eyes—not like Pickford, but alluring on screen as well as stage.

WELL, SEE HER SOON LONDON.—From six mascot to American stage is the night that 17-year-old Kathleen Martin takes, and it's all because her picture appeared in a newspaper as mascot of the Royal Air Force. An American manager saw it and engaged her forthwith for the coming season.

"THE CITY OF COMRADES" BIG ATTRACTION AT THE STRAND.—THE PONY CONTEST

The Strand pony contest closes next Saturday afternoon. At that time the votes will be counted and the winner awarded the handsome Shetland pony, with complete cowboy riding outfit, absolutely free. As an incentive the management will give triple coupons on that afternoon. Every youngster in the city will surely want to be on hand on that occasion and see who the winner is and see him drive the pony off the stage. It should be a great occasion for all.

The pony arrived in town last week and has been seen on the streets of the city by thousands of boys and girls. It's a little handy. A real Shetland pony, as handsome as can be and a real pony, too. Friends of the contestants will undoubtedly work their hardest this week in an endeavor to land the coveted prize. Remember, Saturday afternoon is the time, and triple votes will be given at that performance only.

The sacred concert today will have the following vaudeville acts: The Renards, a mixture of music and mirth; Pickling & Fisher, character comedians; Lena Lee, sweet singer; Garfield & Smith, comedians; Bill Browning, character comedian. The feature film will be "Too Fat to Fight." For the first of the coming week the features will be "Tom Moore," "The City of Comrades" and "Corinne Griffiths in 'The Bramble Bush.'" For the last three days William Farnum in "Voices of the Night," and Emmy Wehlen in "A Favor to a Friend." The usual comedy and weekly.

"The City of Comrades" in which Tom Moore is starred, tells the story of Frank Melbury, a derelict, a prey to his craving for liquor, homeless and friendless save for the devoted companionship of an old man called "Lovey." It is difficult to understand that the young man once had splendid prospects as an architect, with all the advantages of family and education. Persuaded by "Lovey" and because both are hungry, Frank plans to rob a wealthy home. Leaving the hound where he has found jewels of great value, the odor of food tempts him to explore the kitchen. There he finds plunder of far greater value, and once his appetite is appeased, returns upstairs to restore the jewels. He is confronted by Regina Barry. Seeing that he is no common burglar, she allows him to leave untroubled. This is the turning point of Frank's career. He seeks the help of the "down and out" club, a place where men of his kind are given help which brings about reformation. "Lovey's" arguments against this are of no avail and finally the old man goes, too, fighting against hope of being benefited. Eventually the young man is given an opportunity in an architect's office, and in the course of time Mrs. Sterling Barry comes to inspect the memorial tablet she is building with her money. Regina, and Frank is startled by this ghost of the past. Love comes to them both, but Frank will not declare himself, knowing that he dare not marry her with the certain knowledge that she will eventually recognize in her husband the thief. Finally he tries to tell the truth and places Regina's pearls on a writing table exactly as they were the night of the robbery. In a flash she realizes everything and staggers away broken-hearted. To forget his sorrow, Frank enlists in the Canadian army and is sent to Halifax. Then occurs the terrible disaster that shocked the world and Frank recovers, after weeks of wandering in a hospital. Regina learns of his plight and because of her undying love for him, hurries to his side and their reunion leaves nothing wanting.

"The Bramble Bush," featuring Miss Corinne Griffiths, is to be the other feature. One of the first rules of ethics concerning the action of a lawyer receives dramatic treatment in this excellent picture play. The rule is that which requires an attorney to use his supreme efforts to save his client, even though he realizes his client is guilty. Although this rule is modified in criminal cases to the extent that the attorney is restricted from continuing in the removal of evidence, it is regarded as inviolable under ordinary circumstances. The spectacle of an attorney striving earnestly to clear a man whom he knows is guilty and who in addition is a rival of the attorney's in love is here shown. How he succeeds in freeing his client provides a strong example of the city.

The usual Vitaphone comedy and latest Universal Weekly will also be shown.

William Farnum is announced to appear in another of his motion pictures, "Voices of the Night," during the last three days of the week. In the role of a leading engineer whose life is imperiled by plotters, Mr. Farnum, it is said, gives some wonderfully dramatic demonstrations of his business power and physical strength. The title of the play is in the form of a "Cable" and is the financial drama of New York city.

Another feature for the week-end will be Emmy Wehlen in a new and sensational picture, called "A Favor to a Friend." The story is one of thrills and has many bright and happy lines which show Miss Wehlen's unusual talents off admirably. Surprising her are several prominent stars, including Frank Muthall, Jack Fay, Joseph Kibour, Edith Brown, Jack Miller, Jr., Harry Todd and Fred H. Warren.

River—Woman Injured

A woman was slightly injured, an automobile was badly damaged and a man narrowly escaped death in an automobile collision, which occurred last evening at about 6:30 o'clock on the Lowell-Lawrence boulevard. The accident occurred at a point near the Elmhurst station while John Hart, who makes his home at the New Merrimack hotel in this city was returning from Lawrence to Lowell. Mr. Hart was driving his car at a fair rate of speed when suddenly he saw another machine standing by the roadside. In order to avoid a serious collision he swerved to the left, but nevertheless the crash occurred and his car rolled over the embankment into the river. Mr. Hart, who is a good swimmer, swam to the shore and escaped with a drowning.

The automobile standing on the roadside was owned by Henri Guerin of Draught and in the car were his wife, two children and his wife's mother. The latter received minor injuries and was treated at St. John's hospital, where she was removed in another automobile. Hart's automobile was removed from the river during the night and this morning it was towed to a local garage.

A review of the work accomplished during the summer months and a comprehensive plan for the activities of fall and winter were outlined at a meeting of the executive committee of women of the girls' division of War Camp Community Service held yesterday at the club rooms in the Runnels building.

Mrs. William Robertson, chairman of the committee, presided over the meeting and among those present were: Mrs. Joseph Foley, Miss Elsie Brady, Mrs. Charles Holmes, Miss Mary F. Tobin, Miss Olive Parsons, Mrs. George E. Caisse, Mrs. Luther Faulkner, Miss Irene Hogan, Mrs. Frederick Welch and Mrs. Louis A. Olney.

The past and future work at the club was reported by Miss J. MacKlin Beattie, community organizer; Miss Katherine Cronin, recreational director; and Miss Harriet Bennett, club mother.

Miss Cronin's report, being made first, included a review of the athletic and recreational activities of the summer now passing. She voiced the appreciation of the club for the use of the Normal school grounds, offered by Principal John J. Mahoney and for the use of Gonda Club grounds in Tyngsboro, loaned by the Knights of Columbus. Also she thanked the several mill agents and other firms who have loaned automobile trucks for swimming parties and the transportation of girls to and from community stings.

For the fall and winter program Miss Cronin spoke of basketball, cap-tain-ball, folk dancing, gymnasium games and exercises, drills, dances and sleighrides and skating parties. She spoke of the fine work accomplished by Miss Louise Jenkinson, assistant recreational director during the summer and of the coming to Lowell of Miss Katherine Bailey from New Jersey. Miss Bailey will remain in the city as a member of the executive staff.

Miss Bennett spoke of the series of community sings and felt sure they were agents of much good in the development of Americanization work. Also she announced that it is planned to hold "open house" at the club every Thursday and Saturday afternoon and Sunday afternoon and evening during the fall and winter.

Miss Beattie announced an active schedule for the coming months, including the development of several new phases of club work. She stated that sewing and millinery classes would be held as well as a course in home nursing. The club also plans to give a course in dramatics and also it is hoped that a branch of the city library may be established. Miss Beattie also proposed a plan whereby the club rooms will be open every noon between the hours of 12 and 2 p. m., to accommodate girls who wish to spend a noon hour in quiet. Lunch-eaten may be brought to the club and eaten there and the club officers will serve hot drinks.

The directors heartily endorsed all of the plans and expressed sincere pride in what has been accomplished.

WATCH OUT FOR THE POTATO WART

The potato wart disease, the most serious fungus pest that has ever threatened the potato crop, says the Middlesex county bureau, was found in Pennsylvania last year. It has been known for a number of years in Europe, where it is constantly becoming more serious, and has more recently become thoroughly established in Newfoundland, but so far as is known it does not exist in any state in the United States except Pennsylvania. It was to keep this disease out of the country that a quarantine was placed on foreign potatoes in 1912, and the outbreak in Pennsylvania is undoubtedly due to potatoes brought there from Europe prior to the establishment of the quarantine. The Plant Disease Survey of the United States department of agriculture is endeavoring to discover whether or not the disease exists anywhere else in the country. Its findings will have much to do with determining the kind of campaign to be waged against the pest. Everyone who grows potatoes, whether on a large or small scale, should be interested, and should promptly report any suspicious tubers to the County Farm bureau or the State Experiment station.

How To Tell the Disease
The disease attacks only the tuber. At first small, brownish spongy outgrowths are seen; later the whole tuber may become a mass of blackened, warty outgrowths which quickly rot, either in the field or in storage. It does not eat into the potato like scab, but causes distorted outgrowth. Circular 32 of the United States department of agriculture, to be had from the department, from the state plant pathologist, or from your county agent, gives pictures and full description.
